Unparalleled Welcome For MacDonald at New York

Soviet Fliers Are Safe On Alaska Island Many Thousands

Vessel Goes To Aid Russian Plane Cheer Premier Of Britain In U.S.

Two Soviet Airmen Reach Craig, on Prince of Wales Island, North of Queen Charlotte Islands, and Inform World Two Companions Are With Plane, Which Was Forced Down.

Seattle, Oct. 4.—Two of the four Russian aviators who left Sitka, Alaska, yesterday morning for Seattle, reached Craig, Alaska, today and reported their plane, "Land of the Soviets," had come down at Waterfall, Alaska, about 200 miles south of Sitka, yesterday.

The United States coastguard cutter Cygan, which left Ketchikan today, was reported to be near Craig, and will be ordered to go to the aid of the Soviet fliers.

The Russians, flying from Moscow to New York in their monoplane "Land of the Soviets," had been missing since they left Sitka at 6.42 p.m. yesterday to fly along the British Columbia coast to Seattle.

They left Sitka despite poor flying weather and faced a strong southeast wind, clouds and rain.

Waterfall is on the west coast of Prince of Wales Island, off southeast Alaska.

First word of the safety of the four aviators came from the Craig operator of the Alaska-Washington military cable. The report reached here after three coastguard cutters had started to search for them. Two of the cutters had started south from Alaska and one north from Seattle.

PREPARE FOR LOGGING AT GOLDSTREAM

Fairservice, Gierin Timber Company Start on Six-mile Logging Railway

The Fairservice Gierin Timber Company, holders of the city timber rights on the Goldstream watershed, will start immediately on construction of a logging railway which will be projected for six miles through the area, preparatory to the erection of a permanent camp and a start on active logging operations early next spring. It was learned today.

The operations of the company will mean an addition of $35,000 in assets to payrolls in the lower Vancouver Island area, tributary to Victoria and district. It was stated by a representative of the timber company today that logging crews will be assembled, plans have been laid for steady progress on the work when commenced. The site of the camp was picked out this week by representatives of the company, with P. M. Preston, city engineer and water commissioner; Dr. Richard Felton, city health officer; and a representative of the Provincial Board of Health. (Concluded on Page 14)

STATE FUNERAL PLANS IN BERLIN

Chancellor Mueller to Deliver Oration at Stresemann Last Rites

Berlin, Oct. 4.—Arrangements moved forward rapidly today for an impressive state funeral in memory of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Foreign Minister, who died of a heart attack yesterday morning.

The body of the statesman who more than any other moulded post-war Germany will be buried in the small Luthersandwiese cemetery in the northern part of Berlin, in accordance with a wish he expressed in his will. CHANCELLOR TO SPEAK

Saturday evening the body will be taken from his home and placed on a bier, the draped and darkened interior of a hall of the Reichstag, some years of Stresemann's political victories. Chancellor Mueller will deliver the funeral oration, after which the body will be removed to the front of the Reichstag Building and the public allowed to pass by. At the graveside a number of Dr. Stresemann's favorite songs, including a hymn or two, will be sung.

Canada In Fine Trade Position Now

Chamber of Commerce Secretary in Great Britain Sees Conditions Improving

General conditions of trade in Great Britain are improving and Canada's position from a trade point of view is holding an excellent place in Great Britain, according to G. H. Ward, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, who arrived here today.

Mr. Ward addressed directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at luncheon.

"The object of my visit," said Mr. Ward, "is to keep closely in touch with Canadian officials from east to west of the Dominion. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain has a great responsibility placed upon it and it is most essential that personal contact should be maintained."

"The Chamber was organized eight years ago under the presidency of Sir George McLaren Brown, European general manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, and has made steady progress since that time. The president for this year is Henry Ridpath, managing director of Ridpath Brothers Limited, European agents for Burns & Co. Limited, Calgary," he continued.

CANADIAN POLICY
"I have previously referred to Canada's trade position in Great Britain, the appreciable improvement is no doubt due to the recent policy of the Canadian Government in the transference of the Exhibition Commission to London and the creation of a trade publicity office. Both of these departments are doing much to impress upon the mind of the general public."

BELIEVED TWO PLANES MISSED NORTHERN GOAL

Searchers For McAlpine Party Say Machines Fuelless in Barren Lands

Winnipeg, Oct. 4.—Somewhere on the Arctic shore of Canada's mainland, Lieut.-Col. D. H. McAlpine and his seven companions are marooned today with their fuelless planes. This is the conclusion reached by a northern serial search party after failure yesterday to track down the missing explorers.

Back at Baker Lake, west of Hudson Bay, after a reconnoitring rally along the supposed trail of the McAlpine party, Captain G. S. Blanchet believed the McAlpine men had missed the water route from Baker to Bathurst Inlet and flown on to the Arctic coast either east or west of Bathurst Inlet. McAlpine left Baker Lake almost four weeks ago for the ice-locked radio post at the inlet. (Concluded on page 14)

NEW SEARCH IS MADE FOR COSTE PLANE

Moscow, Oct. 4.—An unconfirmed dispatch to Tass, the Russian News Agency, says the plane of Jean-Coste and M. Bellonte, missing French aviators, was seen last Sunday evening flying near the village of Beklemishev, in the region of Lake Arakley, about sixty miles from Chita, southeastern Siberia. The advice stated the plane was flying low, indicating the fliers were looking for a place to land. Every effort was being made today to confirm this report.

Archbishop Mathieu Is Critically Ill

Regina, Oct. 4.—According to latest reports from the Grey Nuns' Hospital here, the condition of Archbishop O. E. Mathieu is stated to be practically unchanged today. Last evening grave fears were entertained for his recovery, but shortly after 1 a.m. today his condition showed a "slight improvement." Officials of the hospital stated at a late hour this forenoon that his condition at present was practically the same as it had been for several weeks.

MANY MOURN ACTRESS' DEATH

Jeanne Eagels, Known on Stage and Screen, Suddenly Succumbs in New York

New York, Oct. 4.—The theatrical world today was shocked by news of the sudden death of Jeanne Eagels, actress who created the character of Sadie Thompson in "Rain." She was thirty-five years old.

She was seized with convulsions last night as she was preparing for an examination in a private sanatorium on Park Avenue conducted by Dr. Edward S. Cowles, nerve specialist. Her secretary, who had accompanied her to the sanatorium, and nurses called a physician, but she died before the doctor could make an examination.

Court to Decide Among Numerous Estate Claimants

Vancouver, Oct. 7.—With nearly 140 claimants to a $250,000 estate, the B.C. Court of Appeal is asked to determine who are the heirs of Grace May Parrish, who died at San Diego January 27, 1925, without having made a will.

The inquiry has necessitated the tracing of ancestors back to the eighteenth century. John Pugsley, maternal grandfather of the deceased, was born in 1756.

The late Chief Justice Hunter awarded all the real estate, situated in Victoria and valued at $210,874, to descendants of Miss Parrish's father, James Carlisle Parrish.

This order is contested by claimants who trace their descent on the side of the deceased's mother from John Pugsley.

Since the matter was brought before the court for adjudication by Cornelia Pugsley Shaw, of New York, a first-hand account of the deceased, she too, died, and her claim is presented by an executor, Kingsley Kurehard.

In a sweeping attempt to clean house, the Victoria Conservative Association culminated a bitter faction fight at their annual meeting last night by installing an entirely new slate of officers and leaving the destinies of the organization in the hands of the Oak Bay group.

Charges of disloyalty and discrimination by members for the city and the shouting down of the association's former president featured the session which at times was very lively.

The Oak Bay ticket of officers, reputed to have been backed by the four city members made a clean sweep in the balloting, being supported by a 2 to 1 majority. F. C. Elliott was succeeded in the president's chair by R. A. Wootton, the vote being 509 for Mr. Wootton and 306 for Mr. Elliott.

The other officers on the new slate went in by like majorities. They are as follows: First vice-president, Mrs. M. J. Roberts; second vice-president, Alderman J. L. Mara; secretary, Major R. G. Monteith; treasurer, J. L. Clay. Disappointment was expressed by supporters of Mr. Elliott at the result of the voting as the former president had guided the party to victory in two elections here.

A REGULAR JAM
Diligent campaigning by the two opposing factions resulted in a huge turnout and the hall was jammed to the doors. Several of those who failed to gain entrance were given the right to ballot and then went away. Premier S. P. Tolmie, who was expected to be present, failed to attend.

Representatives of the two parties handed out yellow and blue slips to everyone before they entered the hall. One of these bore the state of officers headed by F. C. Elliott, the former president, and the other carried the new group.

EUROPE WILL WELCOME PACT, SAYS PREMIER

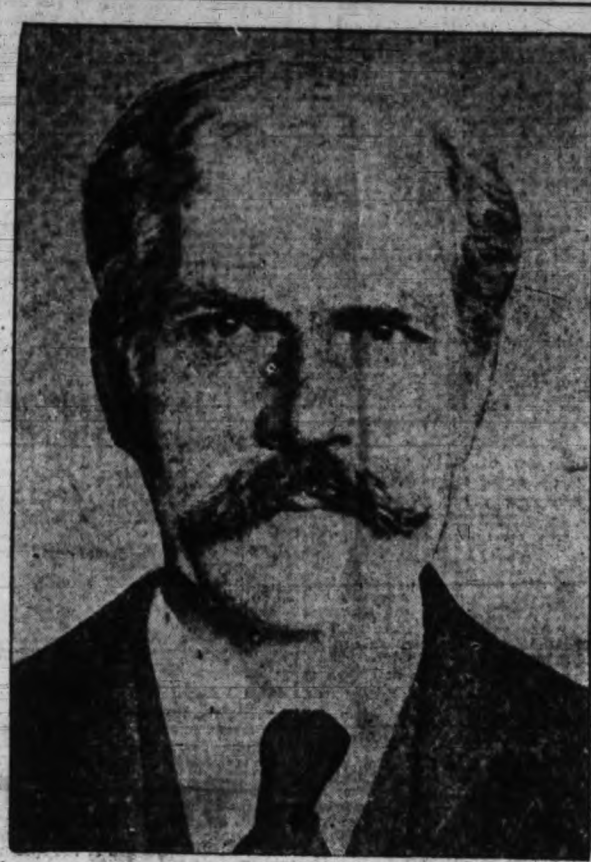

Will Accept British-U.S. Naval Reduction Plan, Says MacDonald

New York, Oct. 4 (By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—A message of bravery as well as one of goodwill and peace was brought to the New World by Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's Labor Premier, today. Europe, he asserted, just before setting foot on the soil of the United States, did not regard the Anglo-American disarmament negotiations with fear and trembling.

"An Anglo-American mutual understanding will be welcomed by Europe," he added. "Europe is not afraid."

The Prime Minister and his daughter, Isabel, were received here today with all the warmth and enthusiasm of which the United States metropolis is capable.

MacDonald, Arriving to Hold Naval Disarmament Conversations With President Hoover Is Greeted by Great Throngs on Arrival in New York and Given Warm Welcome by State and City Officials.

MACDONALD HONORED AT WASHINGTON

Throngs Cheer British Premier as He Goes to Visit Hoover at White House

Washington, Oct. 4.—Premier MacDonald arrived in Washington late today, to confer with President Hoover.

His heart and mind bent on promoting a British-United States understanding, the British statesman was welcomed cordially as he and Secretary Stimson alighted from the special train which brought them from New York.

The Union Station was thronged and cheers resounded through the concourse as Mr. MacDonald and his daughter, Isabel, were escorted toward the Presidential reception-room.

Those who sought to approach more closely to the visiting party were held back by marines.

The Prime Minister wore a frock coat and silk hat and in his buttonhole was a sprig of heather. Isabel wore a large bouquet of orchids.

Assistant Secretary Castle of the State Department and Lady Isabella Howard and Mrs. Stimson greeted him and his daughter.

Several small British flags were waved by onlookers as the party walked toward automobiles for the trip to the British Embassy.

ACKNOWLEDGED APPLAUSE
The Premier swung his brown stick jauntily and tipped his hat as the crowds applauded.

The marine guard brought their rifles to present arms.

As the party stepped out of the station an army band played "God Save the King."

While the Prime Minister and his daughter were leaving the station a familiar tune of the Scottish bagpipes greeted them.

At the first notes of Britain's National Anthem, the party halted and stood at attention.

MILLIONS LAUGH AT SLIP OF TONGUE DURING WELCOME

Probably more millions laughed simultaneously at a joke this morning than ever before in the world's history. While the representative of New York City was reading the city's address of welcome to Premier MacDonald at the City Hall he spoke of the distinguished visitor as "Premier of the United States." Mayor Walker, quick on the pick-up, when he heard the laughter of those about him said a letter had been written that, but it was a courteous hope anyway. The words were carried by radio throughout the whole of the United States and Canada and across to Europe.

CAMSELL TELLS OF CANADA'S GREAT MINERAL GROWTH

Vancouver, Oct. 4.—The British Empire, with its exportable surplus of twenty-one of the twenty-eight leading minerals, had the dominant position in the mineral world, Dr. Charles Camsell, Federal Deputy Minister of Mines, said in addressing the Vancouver Canadian Club today.

The greatest producer and greatest consumer, was self-sufficient in only eleven of the twenty-eight, he said. The fact that no country was self-sufficient in minerals was a factor increasing international exchange.

CAPITAL FIGURES
The United States, Dr. Camsell went on, was Canada's leading mineral consumer and also the leading furnisher of outside capital. Of $325,000,000 of outside capital invested in Canadian mining, $200,000,000 was from the United States and less than $100,000,000 from elsewhere.

New York, Oct. 4.—Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, British Prime Minister, en route to Washington to visit President Hoover on a goodwill mission, was enthusiastically acclaimed here today as he set foot on United States soil.

The distinguished visitor felt the first warmth of his reception at the quarantine station, shortly after he had arrived there aboard the liner Berengaria, which was escorted by the United States cruisers Memphis and Trenton. A welcoming committee, which had gone down the bay aboard the city tug Macom, boarded the liner and formally welcomed him to the city and nation.

LANDED AT BATTERY
These preliminaries over, Premier MacDonald, his daughter, Miss Isabel, and the members of his party were taken on board the Macom, which proceeded to the tip of Manhattan Island at the Battery. Vessels of all descriptions in the harbor gave the party a mighty salute and the bay aboard the city tug Macom, boarded the liner and formally welcomed him to the city and nation.

SAW SKYLINE
While her father was being interviewed in the main cabin, Miss Isabel was in another cabin with a group of women reporters. She was smiling and lighthearted, but rather hesitant to answer questions regarding her impressions of this continent.

Finally she said, "Oh, my goodness, I'm missing the skyline," and asking to be excused, went out on the deck as the Macom steamed slowly across the harbor.

Twelve army planes soared overhead as the marine parade moved up the harbor.

A great wave of cheering rolled along the Battery wall as the crowds there sighted the Macom, and continued until the Macom was securely tied up and the party was coming ashore to get into automobiles for the ride to the City Hall.

Among the first to grasp the Premier's hand as he stepped ashore was Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who, with Sir Esmé Howard, British Ambassador at Washington, had waited at a pier for the Premier's party. They exchanged a few words, smiled, and then the party climbed into cars and started up through the canyons of Lower Broadway to the City Hall.

JANUARY DATE FOR CONFERENCE ON NAVAL CUTS

Paris, Oct. 4.—It was understood here today that the British Government already had prepared invitations conyoking a five-power naval limitation conference in London the third week in January.

As Premier MacDonald reached the United States it was reported in international circles the main difficulty in arriving at a tentative accord between Great Britain and the United States lay in two things.

The first of these was a matter of total tonnage of cruisers, which the United States wants to make as low as possible.

The second had to do with the yardstick of measurement, which fundamentally is a question of how many six-inch gun cruisers should be regarded as equal to the eight-inch gun cruiser.

OAK BAY FACTION SWEEPED INTO POWER AT TORY MEETING

Evidence of party dissatisfaction and appeals for fair play marked the campaigning which preceded balloting. When Mr. Elliott rose to speak for an allotted three minutes, he exceeded his time limit and was howled down. In a fighting address, E. W. Maynard leveled charges against the members for the city of discrimination and disloyalty to the party and suggested that intimidation had been used by one of them to engineer the election of the association officers.

Lindley Crease, K.C., was chosen as chairman of the meeting when it finally got under way. In his opening remarks he suggested the large attendance indicated the Conservative Party was "alive" in Victoria.

ASKED FOR SQUARE SHAKE

"Canada expects every man and woman to play the game," he said. "No one will wish that the results of this evening's work will be influenced by anything but perfectly straight and square dealing and everyone will hope that the majority rules."

He then called upon Mr. Elliott for his annual report.

Mr. Elliott, telling of the year's events which included both provincial and federal elections, spoke of the hard work done by officers of the association, all of whom had labored assiduously for the party.

Mr. Maynard, in his report as treasurer, defended the association's treasury against allegations which had been made that the party was "patronage mad."

"I know the association's treasury in every detail and there is not one case of money being donated that came by patronage. You have no one to thank for the condition of the treasury but the workers of the party," he said.

"There was a certain faction during the year who wished to close the Conservative rooms in the Campbell Building. The president met this in a suitable way by sending this statement back to these interests: 'You take this back to your faction and tell them as long as I am president, even if I have to pay $200 a month out of my own pocket, those rooms will not be closed.'"

WAVES THE REPORT

"If anyone tries to tell me I have not been loyal to the Conservative Association, take it out of that," he concluded, waving aloft his report.

Marking of ballots and shuffling around by people who wanted to cast their vote and get away interrupted the report of Leonard Tait, the secretary. The chairman had to ask for order and "fair play" several times.

Nomination of representatives on the executive of the Provincial Conservative Association was the next business. The following five were placed before the meeting: Lady McBride, Mrs. Bessie M. Brown, Roland H. Powell, Lindley Crease and Leonard Tait. With the exception of Mr. Tait, this represented the latest advanced by the Wootton faction and these four were elected. Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Gills, who have served on this executive in the past, declined to stand.

White Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., wrestled with the blackboard bearing these nominations, the crowd chuckled.

Election of the club's officers then proceeded. Mr. Crease mentioned that under the constitution these were not nominated from the floor but by special committees. He said he would allow each candidate three minutes to speak.

"I have and always will think that this contest is a mistake," said Mr. Elliott when he rose to speak. "I have tried to get all parties together and have perfect unanimity in the election. It became impossible, although I even offered to retire to heal any breach there may be. This has been forced on us by the supporters of Mr. Wootton, however, and all hope of unanimity was lost."

CLAIMS TWIGG

"I am credibly informed," he continued, "that the responsibility for this breach rests on the shoulders of H. Dapard Twigg." The audience chuckled.

"I have respect for my opponent. He'll tell you he's a native son, but that's not his fault. I am a Victoria citizen by choice. Mr. Wootton has said he is running at the instigation of the city members, and even of the Cabinet. I am not running at the instigation of anyone."

"It is for you to decide whether it is policy for the city members to enter a factional campaign in the Conservative Association; whether it is policy to use methods of intimidation to get votes for their candidates."

The crowd began to yell "Time!" at this juncture, but Mr. Elliott continued.

"It is evident I am treading on someone's toes when it takes the four city members to fight me," he continued, this statement being greeted with claps from some parts of the hall and by shouts and yells to "sit down" from other sections.

"Three minutes, three minutes," and "Time, time," the audience shouted.

But Mr. Elliott went on to say that even the secretary to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, in a politically appointed position, had taken a hand in the campaign.

HOLD A MINUTE

"Wait till I'm through," he said, as the crowd continued to shout. "If I am not elected, you will find yourselves at the next Federal election, in the position that you will have both president and secretary living in Nanaimo riding."

As soon as Mr. Elliott sat down, Frank Higgins, K.C., jumped up and suggested that the rest of the speeches should be eliminated.

"It would not be fair to the others," said Mr. Crease. "I allowed the retiring president a little extra time, I will admit."

"Then give Mr. Wootton the same amount," came from the crowd. "Five minutes, five minutes."

Mr. Wootton, in a short speech, said he would support the aims of the Conservative party.

"True," he said, "my praises have not been sung on the pages of The Victoria Times, but I have served you in several capacities before, and it is only natural that you should elect me if I am ever to be president of your association."

Loud applause followed his talk. Mr. Maynard rose to his feet with the declaration that he was not a native son of Victoria, but a son of the British Empire.

CITY MEMBERS WORRY HIM

"I want to tell you," he declared emphatically, "I am not running in this election against my opponent. I am running against three city members."

"And I charge these city members with dishonoring the Conservative flag by discrimination. I'll give you an instance. There was a certain woman I would have liked to see nominated for this contest. But one of the city members rang her up and told her that if she ran no consideration would be given her husband with regard to securing a job."

"I appeal to those who went over seas in the war to fight against such a thing," he shouted amid claps, laughter and yells of time.

Mr. Crease called for order, declaring he would protect each speaker as far as he could.

"I will ask Mr. Twigg and Mr. Hinchliffe, who were elected on soldiers' tickets, to denounce this sort of thing," Mr. Maynard continued.

Waving his hand across the front of the platform at these gentlemen, he shouted:

"You were elected on it and you've broken it."

The rest of the candidates were given a fair hearing, although in each case sentiment seemed to favor the Wootton supporters.

After the work of collecting the ballots had been finished, the crowd started to disperse. Mayor Herbert Anson arrived at this juncture.

TALKED AND SMOKED

Talks by D. B. Flunkett, M.P., and the four city members followed, and the crowd then sat around and smoked until well after 11 o'clock, when the results of balloting were announced.

The late John Davison Clark, well-known resident of 1860 Beach Drive, for whom funeral services were held on Monday at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, Canon A. de L. Nunns officiated, assisted by Rev. Wynne Lightburn of Montreal. Interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Determining Unborn Child's Sex Is Nearly Always Guesswork

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

One of the problems that has disturbed the minds of scientists for many years is the question of determining the sex of the child before birth.

There have been all sorts of theories and suggestions for this purpose, but none of them has thus far sustained the test of scientific investigation. It was thought for long that the heart rate of boys was slower than that of girls, but this is such a rough and ready system that it cannot be depended on in any considerable number of cases.

More than 200 years ago an investigator assembled 282 different theories as to the determination of sex; to-day there are more than 1,000 of these theories, but no one of them has been sustained.

It is the belief of E. O. Manolov of Leningrad that the sex of the child depends on the secretions of the glands of sex in the mother and father and that these secretions circulating in the blood of the mother and father, as well as in the blood of the child, determine the sexual nature of the person. It is known that these products of the glands, called sexual hormones, exert an influence on the psychic state of the individual and determine also the development of the various sex characters, such as the hair, beard and whiskers in man, the depth of the voice, and the special characters that appear in women.

Manolov has been working for some years in an endeavor to find in the blood the specific substances that are responsible. As a result, he has developed a chemical test which he has used on all sorts of species, including the human being, and other investigators have repeated his test with a considerable amount of success.

Practically all of this work has been developed in Russia and published in Russian periodicals. The most recent contribution by Manolov appears in the American Journal of Physical Anthropology.

As a result of a summary of all of the evidence, it is now asserted that the Manolov test permits the distinction of blood from a man from that of a woman in from 90 to 95 per cent of cases. It is asserted also that it is possible to determine by the mother's blood the sex of the child.

before its birth in from 88 to 96 per cent of cases.

Obviously, here is a test of the greatest scientific importance, one which will have legal value just as soon as it has been tried on a sufficient number of cases to establish definitely its limitations. ONTARIO'S MINERAL GROWTH

Blind River, Ont., Oct. 4.—In the second speech of his northern Ontario tour, Hon. Charles McRae, Minister of Mines, predicted here last night that within the next five years the mineral production of Ontario would increase from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 annually. At the same time, Mr. McRae announced Ferguson Government proposed the Provincial land tax would be repealed at the next session of the Ontario Legislature as against bona fide settlers and residents of northern Ontario.

THIRTEEN DIE IN BIG MUTINY IN COLORADO PRISON

was removed to cellhouse No. 3 by other convicts. The body was found this morning with a bullet through the head, fired by one of the other convicts to end his suffering.

Three of the other ring-leaders were found dead in the same cell, powder burns on their temples bearing mute testimony to shots fired at close range. The body of Daniels was found in the doorway, sprawled half in and half out of the cell.

The floor of the cellhouse, which last night served as the execution chamber of four unarmed guards, was slippery with blood.

BOUND BEFORE END CAME

The bodies of Charles Shepherd and John W. McClelland, two of the slain guards, were found in the cellhouse, bound hand and foot. Both had been shot through the head.

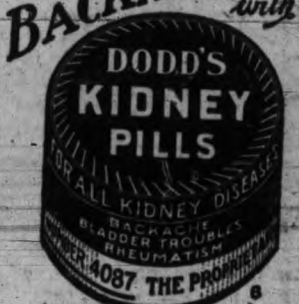

Close estimates fix the time of the suicides of the riot leaders at 4 a.m., but it was not until an hour and a half later, at daybreak, when O. E. Earl, one of the surviving guards, made his way into the prison yard, that the attacking forces learned of the fact, entered the cellhouse and rounded up the prisoners.

AVOIDED ERROR

Earl said he was afraid to leave the cellhouse until daylight, for fear of being mistaken for a convict and shot by the watchers on the walls. With him in the cellhouse were John Pesse and Lawrence Roche, who escaped the fury of the convicts. Roche's sister, Josephine, secretary to Warden Crawford, had remained at the prison all night, fearing each minute to see her brother's bullet-riddled body tossed out of a window of the cellhouse, as the bodies of Elles and Wiggins had been tossed out.

Giving her brother up for dead, she left the prison shortly before daylight.

Relieve BACKACHE with DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

When she learned he was alive, she collapsed.

Gutted by fire, which destroyed the dining-room and chapel and two of the cellhouses, and scarred by machine gun bullets and dynamite, the prison yard this morning was in utter ruin.

WEIRD SPECTACLE

The yard last night presented a weird sight. Illumination from flood and searchlights mingled with flames to make every object stand out as if in day.

FEARED KILLERS

During the night five convicts delivered the fatally wounded guard, J. Elles, to prison officials outside the gates. The convicts pleaded to be allowed to leave the enclosure. They said one of the leaders was a killer and they would all be killed if they were not taken out of the yard. Or, they said, they would return, but not to the cellhouse. They went to another part of the prison yard.

WAVE OF INSURRECTION

New York, Oct. 4.—Mutiny of convicts in the Colorado State Prison at Canon City brought to four the number of prison outbreaks in the United States during the last few months. In that period a wave of insurrection has swept the country.

In the first of these serious outbreaks, three convicts were killed at the Clinton Prison at Dannemora, N.Y., known to the underworld as "Siberia." Thirteen hundred prisoners there attempted to rush the guards buildings and finally were subdued by guards and troops from Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Six days later 1,700 inmates at the Auburn, N.Y., prison mutinied. Two prisoners were killed, eleven were wounded and four escaped. There, too, the prisoners set fire to half a dozen buildings, the loss being estimated at $250,000. State troopers aided guards in quelling the riot.

On August 1, mutinous convicts at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., rebelled over the quality of their food and the system of discipline. One prisoner was killed and three were injured.

MURDER DESCRIBED

Canon City, Colo., Oct. 4.—"Wiggins, have you said your prayers?" "Yes, where do you want me to stand?"

"Right where you are."

A shot, and Abe Wiggins was dead with a bullet in his temple. These details and the conversation were related by Guard John Shea, released guard at the Colorado state penitentiary here, as having occurred between Wiggins and Danny Daniels, one of the convicts alleged to have led the mutiny at the prison which was ended this morning.

Shea said Daniels then turned to him and said:

"Shea, you have been a pretty good sport. Take Wiggins to the gate."

Daniels, Shea said, then turned to Marvin Duncan, another captive guard,

Smiling, the Prime Minister and his daughter paused even longer before entering the automobiles for photographers to take repeated shots. He joked with Secretary Stimson about the insistence of the cameramen.

Mr. MacDonald, Secretary Stimson and Captain Allen Buchanan, naval aide to President Hoover, occupied the first automobile for the ride to the Embassy. In the next sat Sir Esmé Howard, British ambassador, Under-Secretary Cotton of the State Department and Colonel Campbell Hodges, military aide to President Hoover. Lady Howard, Mrs. Stimson and Isabel MacDonald were in the third car.

ALONG AVENUE

The remaining twelve automobiles were rapidly filled. The procession then moved slowly toward the Capitol on its way to the Embassy by way of Pennsylvania Avenue. Police on motorcycles, with their sirens screaming, preceded the cars.

Two troops of cavalry and a battalion of artillery formed the escort. As the cavalcade moved up Washington's historic thoroughfare, two planes flew overhead—one of nine and the other of three planes. The humming of their engines attracted the attention of the visitors.

MANY THOUSANDS CHEER PREMIER OF BRITAIN IN UNITED STATES

HAWSER PARTED

An accident was narrowly averted at the quarantine station when a hawser holding the Macom against the Berengaria parted just as Mr. MacDonald was preparing to step aboard the gangplank.

The Macom slid back several feet, almost pulling the gangplank off her deck. Mr. MacDonald was waved back and a new hawser was quickly adjusted. He and his party then climbed aboard the bobbing city tug.

HAND PLAYED

A police band in an accompanying tug played "Rule Britannia" as the party left the Berengaria.

In the little cabin of the Macom, jammed almost to suffocation by a hundred or more reporters, Mr. MacDonald submitted to an interview.

After several minor questions, the British Prime Minister, his voice deep with feeling, turned to the purpose of his visit to this country.

"I know I shall find here a treasure of goodwill toward Great Britain," he said, and then after a few remarks concerning the proposed conversations with President Hoover said:

"If we (Great Britain and the United States) stand side by side for peace, who can stand against us?"

He was dressed in formal morning attire, a sprig of heather in his buttonhole, held fast by a bit of plaid ribbon.

SHEARER NOT KNOWN

One of the reporters, just before the interview was terminated, asked Mr. MacDonald:

"Do you personally know William B. Shearer?"

Mr. MacDonald looked a bit puzzled for a moment and then, smiling, said: "I do not believe he is known on the other side."

Thousands, many of whom had been there since dawn, lined the route to the City Hall and down on the procession streamed a storm of ticker tape as a continuous applause rolled through the deep streets and echoed back from the towering buildings.

In City Hall Park a greater crowd even was waiting, packed in until it seemed there was hardly room for another person.

He broke into wild applause as the Premier's car rolled through the lane held open by police and stopped at the City Hall steps.

"Hello, Mac," several shouted, taking up the British laborers' usual greeting to their Premier, their voices clear above the din.

WAVED HIS HAT

The Premier, his cheeks glowing and his eyes sparkling, seemed in high good humor as he bowed and smiled, waving his hat in a continuous greeting to the welcoming crowd.

There were several bands in City Hall Park, one of them a children's Scottish band attired in kilts that thrilled out a Highland greeting to the man from Lismore.

SPECIAL GUARDS

On the steps of the City Hall, forming a line through which Mr. MacDonald ascended, were 150 recent graduates of the New York police college, tall, brawny chaps in regulation police uniforms and white leggings and white gloves. They saluted as the Premier passed between their ranks.

Lining the sidewalk in front of the City Hall, in the front rank was a delegation of twenty Scotsmen in Highland costumes, their kilts and sporrans forming a colorful contrast to the severe blue and white of the police uniforms.

Hesitating but a moment on the steps to wave a greeting at the crowd in the plaza, Mr. MacDonald and his party were escorted to the aldermanic chamber, where Mayor James J. Walker and Edward J. Flynn, New York Secretary of State, greeted him in the name of the city and state.

The time being short, Mayor Walker launched immediately into his welcoming address and presented the Premier with an embossed scroll from the city of New York commemorating his visit.

DEEPLY MOVED

With a faint but unmistakable Scottish "burr" Mr. MacDonald replied to the civic welcome in phrases about and said: "Prepare yourself to be the next to die."

Shea said there was a shot as he left and he presumed Duncan had been the next.

Daniels told Shea to tell officers outside that, surrounded by the six guards, he and his companions would come to the gate if two automobiles were waiting for them and the guards would be freed.

This offer was refused by Warden F. E. Crawford as plans were then nearly ready to start dynamiting the wall and making a charge at the cell block.

would be that inspiring both to outdo one another in the work of peace.

At frequent intervals it was necessary for Premier MacDonald to pause to allow the outbursts of cheering to die down, so spontaneous was the enthusiasm and so obviously genuine was the approval of the throng which had been admitted to the historical precincts of the City Hall.

The mayor then escorted Mr. MacDonald and his party to their automobiles and they were whisked away to the Pennsylvania Station to board a special train to Washington.

The Berengaria arrived at quarantine at 7 a.m.

DEATH OF STRESEMANN

The British Prime Minister during a brief interview given an army of newspapermen who came out on the tug to meet him, said:

"The death of Dr. Gustav Stresemann was a great calamity. He was one of the greatest pacificators in Europe."

The work Dr. Stresemann had done in the cause of peace would be carried on, however.

Mr. MacDonald was asked if he had any idea who would permanently succeed the late German Foreign Minister, but he replied in the negative.

Another question related to the unemployment problem in Great Britain. Premier MacDonald was asked if he felt any real solution of the problem was being found.

"The British Government is facing the unemployment problem with energy," he asserted. Time would tell what progress was being made.

NEW YORK ACCLAIMS MACDONALD

THE RECEPTION GIVEN MR. RAMSAY
MacDonald in New York this morning is a happy augury for the success of his mission. Millions of radio enthusiasts, particularly those in Canada and other parts of the British Empire, must have felt highly gratified as the waves of thunderous applause came to them through the air, and as they heard the announcer describe the scene as one which surpassed anything of its kind in the history of New York's long calendar of welcomes to distinguished visitors.

In the light of Mr. MacDonald's reception, the international pinpricks of jingoistic newspapers, the outpourings of scoffers who tell us that Premier MacDonald is a dreamer of dreams that never can come true, that President Hoover is merely nursing false hopes, that both countries should not attempt to change the habit of centuries, shrink into insignificance. As Mr. MacDonald observed in his reply to the mayor's address of welcome, his mission has nothing to do with alliances or any of the old systems which were responsible for most of the troubles of the past. To-day it was nation speaking to nation, both with a common aspiration—the peace of the world. In that mood he had come to the United States, representing a united country and with the good wishes of his Sovereign, and he felt that in that mood the people of the United States also would receive him.

Apart from the spontaneity of the welcome which New York gave to Mr. MacDonald, history has been made to-day. This is the first time a British Prime Minister has visited the United States, and it is the first time one occupying such a unique position in British public life as Mr. MacDonald does has undertaken a task of such vital importance, not only to the British people, but to the world as a whole. Well may this meeting between the political leaders of two great nations mark the beginning of a new era in international relations. For if an understanding be reached between Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Hoover—which is the devout wish of all the English-speaking peoples—a profound impression will be made upon the rest of the nations of the world. With Great Britain and the United States leading the way along a path which the British Prime Minister described as a path upon which future generations should encounter no obstruction, others assuredly soon will follow.

It should not be expected that the two statesmen who are to discuss this question of naval disarmament in particular, and the general contribution which both countries may make towards the peace of the world, will be able to agree upon every detail in the first hour of their conversations. There are certain conflicting views to be reconciled. But the public already has been told that the margin of difference has been narrowed down to such an extent that agreement upon outstanding knotty points will not be very difficult to reach. At any rate, the deliberations of Prime Minister and President will not be hampered by an interminable discussion of technicalities—and they have their nations behind them.

HIS BROTHER'S KEEPER

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE SPIRIT
of humanitarianism is the one great feature that sets the present age above all former periods in human civilization. That is the opinion of Dr. James Lyons Biggar, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, as expressed in an article written by him for the September issue of The Red Cross Courier.

"Our civilization," writes Dr. Biggar, "is moved, as no former civilization was moved, by the miseries which are revealed to it. In the old days the enormously preponderant majority were of the Pharisees, who saw the wounded traveler and cared not, but passed by on the other side. To-day the Good Samaritan is beginning to dominate the situation.

"In times past the answer to the question, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' was 'No.' Nowadays it begins to be 'Yes.' The very existence of the organization of which Dr. Biggar is the chief proves the correctness of his words.

The Red Cross could not have been organized in any former era of society. It exists solely to relieve distress among the victims of disaster and misfortune. Through it people band together to put an end to the suffering of total strangers. Famine victims in China, hurricane victims in Porto Rico, flood victims in the Mississippi Valley, earthquake victims in Asia Minor—all look to the Red Cross for help.

This is possible, as Dr. Biggar says, because there is more of the humanitarian spirit in the world now than ever before. And when you stop to examine this development, you find an interesting thing. The rise of neighborliness, kindness, compassion, or whatever you choose to call it, is partly a spiritual thing and partly a material thing.

We are more thoughtful and considerate now than our forefathers used to be—but it is easier for us than it was for them. We are closer to our neighbors than they were.

A century ago Massachusetts and Georgia were farther apart than the United States and Brazil are to-day. Science and invention have contracted all distances. If a tidal wave should raze the city of Manila, for instance, the American Red Cross would know of it within a few hours, and money for relief would be available before another day had passed. A century ago, though, the whole process would have taken nearly a year.

There is room for unbounded optimism here. As our social instincts develop, science and invention make it easier for us to exercise them. We are beginning to realize, as Dr. Biggar says, that we are our brothers' keepers, partly because we are getting more civilized, and partly because modern means of transportation and communication are simply compelling us to realize it.

NO ROOM FOR "REDS"

IF THERE ARE STILL SOME WHO FIND it difficult to draw the line between what is known as a Laborite and a Communist, they may find their task simplified by noting how the disciples of Moscow are faring at the British Labor Party's conference which is taking place at Brighton. If we may describe it tersely, it is to the point to say that as soon as a "Red" gets up he is promptly sat upon by the overwhelming majority of right-wingers.

There is nothing new in this treatment which organized Labor in Britain metes out to the dwindling Communist element in its midst. At every session of the Trades Union Congress since the noisy minority made its appearance a few years ago, those who would remake the world according to the pattern of Lenin and Trotsky, and amended somewhat by their successors, have been kept firmly in their places. They have not been able to get anywhere.

AN INSPIRING INFLUENCE

EVEN TO THOSE WHO HARDLY know the right end of a baseball bat, the name of Miller Huggins for long has been as familiar as leaders in other forms of sport, and with them there will be more than a tinge of regret that one who "played the game" in every sense of the term will never see the diamond again. Perhaps one of the finest tributes which has been paid to his memory and his work is that which appeared in a recent editorial in The Christian Science Monitor. It said in part: "Miller J. Huggins, in the many years that he was identified with baseball, proved himself possessed of qualities of leadership beyond the ordinary. As both player and manager, he endeared himself to many, and became widely recognized as a man whose influence upon the game he was so closely associated with was always of a most inspiring nature."

Baseball is swift in its managerial changes, only the fittest surviving the test of many campaigns. With the Yankees, a team of spectacular, individual stars, the manager has to combine a superior understanding of baseball with a keen knowledge of how to handle men. That Miller Huggins did this with remarkable success is attested by the fact that he twice won three straight pennants and put his club through two straight world series without a defeat, an accomplishment never duplicated. The American League has had in him a great baseball student, the Yankees a great manager, and the players themselves a staunch friend.

THE COST OF RACKETS

A WRITER IN THE OCTOBER ISSUE of Harper's Magazine estimates that the various "rackets" now being practiced in Chicago cost that city a total of $136,000,000 a year—which figures up to about $45 for every man, woman and child in the city.

That is the price Chicago is paying for having allowed the underworld to establish itself. Or, rather, that is part of the price; that does not include any of the indirect losses caused by vice and lawlessness. It is simply the total in cold cash that is extorted from the pockets of Chicago citizens each year.

Chicago, it is good to note, is gradually making headway in its fight against its underworld. It will be a long, slow fight; but Chicago at last is aroused, and the gangsters are losing their power by degrees.

But it will be a long time before the situation is really cleaned up. Meanwhile, Chicago's citizens will continue to pay their $45 apiece.

THE DOUKHOBOR PROBLEM
The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Among the younger generation there are many who have emancipated themselves, become educated, and taken their places in normal business and professional life. They are first-class citizens and it is on them that hopes for a solution of the Doukhobor problem must be centred. . . . What is to be done about the older people of the community is a puzzle. Perhaps one will have to wait until that generation has passed from the scene for a cessation of the recurring clashes between the Doukhobors and the police.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

Admiral Barakoff refuses to sell his letters from the Czar—which marks him as unique in our time. The Coolidges tell the world (and how!)—The States spun tea, never having tasted it—and the B.C. courts tackle a baffling problem.

By H. H. W.

IN LONDON lives Admiral Barakoff.

formerly of the Russian Navy, now an aged carpenter, who works long hours at his bench that he may have food to eat. Once a power in Russia, Admiral Barakoff has been besieged by magazines for his memoirs and especially his letters from his close friend the Czar, but he has refused all such requests. "I work for my living," he told the publishers. "I do not sell private letters."

THIS, WHEN YOU COME TO THINK OF it is rather refreshing. In fact it might be said in our day to be unique. Nothing is sacred with us any more. The private diary of the great Cardinal Manning is heralded to the public, the intimate family life of Queen Elizabeth is published in detail, Queen Elizabeth's most personal affairs are ransacked, the eighth Henry's matrimonial entanglements are minutely examined, Lincoln's boyhood foibles are shrieked from the House-tops and Lord Byron's peccadilloes are peddled in the market place.

IT IS bad enough in the case of the deceased, and is useful historically, but we don't stop with the dead, we drag the skeletons from the closets of the living as well. Every man of prominence publishes his memoirs with private letters and papers galore, which is an easier way of making a livelihood than working at a bench, like Admiral Barakoff.

DOING WITH restraint, this kind of thing may be all right, but there is no restraint any more. Additions to Mr. Mussolini's family are accurately scheduled and heralded to the world months in advance, and at the moment Mr. Calvin Coolidge is regaling the American public with an intimate tale of how he used to lie awake at night and wonder where the money was coming from to pay the rent.

THAT, HOWEVER, is nothing for the Coolidge family. The young lady who recently married Mr. Coolidge's son has far outdone her father-in-law. For the Hearst papers she wrote of her marriage plans last week as follows: "We'll have most of our meals at home—it's so much nicer than eating in restaurants and hotels. And besides, we don't have enough money to waste any on expensive meals and theatres. John will come home for luncheon every noon. A real home, in other words a real marriage, is what we plan to have. We're going to have a high time here Tuesday evening. Sister Jean is going to give me a grocery shower. Wednesday afternoon Helen Manning is having a bridge tea for me at the Hartford Golf Club. On Thursday luncheon, bridge and a shower at the golf club again."

Twenty-five years ago, if a prospective bridegroom saw himself in the newspapers in these surroundings he would quietly jump off the pier like a gentleman. . . .
NOW, INSTEAD OF this honorable course, young Mr. Coolidge doubtless will cheerfully help his young wife to buy Oriental rugs for the living-room from the proceeds of his public shame. The day of Admiral Barakoff, when one didn't sell private letters, and where one ate one's meals was no business of the public, unhappily are gone forever.

IF THERE IS any relationship between tea drinking and national greatness, as many philosophers have supposed, the latest figures on tea consumption, published by the organ of the London tea trade, are highly illuminating. They show, for instance, that the great bulk of the world's tea supply is used to cheer the British breakfast table and maintain the sacred tradition of the five o'clock snack. Britain alone last year consumed fifty-two per cent of the world's tea production, and the British Empire only per cent, apart from the amounts drunk in tea-producing countries. And Old England is going in more strongly than ever for tea, its consumption having risen from 999,000,000 pounds in 1925 to 424,000,000 in 1928. During this same time, however, Holland increased its per capita tea consumption much more rapidly, and Germany also showed a steady gain, while in France tea imports are declining.

DESPITE WHAT the trade journal calls "expensive propaganda" it has been impossible to arrest the decline in the demand for tea in the United States, which may surprise the tea industry, but does not surprise anyone who has drunk the sickly, colorless totton usually served as tea in American homes. If the Americans could be taught how to brew tea, and to drink it as nature intended, without the addition of corrupting milk and sugar, undoubtedly the excellent vice of tea drinking would spread among them and they might become as great as we.

WHAT THE tea industry on this continent really needs, however, is some scientific advertising which would prove by impressive medical opinion that by drinking this beverage three times a day a woman would (1) lose weight; (2) make her skin beautiful; (3) keep her hair from turning grey; (4) achieve Miss Garbo's stare; and (5) Miss Bow's well-known fit. (Which, after all, is less than is claimed for every kind of patented food, soap, unguent, painless exerciser, vacuum cleaner, refrigerator and shoe polish.) And if the advertising man could add just a tiny dash of wickedness to tea-drinking, such as is attached to cigarettes and cocktails, the success of the industry would be absolutely assured. What the tea industry needs is not better tea, but better salesmanship.

DRUG CLERKS of British Columbia, it seems, are trying to invoke the Male Minimum Wage Act, and their employers say that the Legislature never intended the statute to apply to such people. Now, it is announced, the courts will be asked to decide what the Legislature had in mind when it passed the law. Anyone who knows the Legislature and the checkered history of this statute, will know that the courts are being asked to settle a baffling question. If the courts can decide just what the Legislature had in mind they will be doing better than the Legislature. Indeed, if they can show that the Legislature had anything in mind at all, the Legislature will feel rather flattered.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, October 4, 1904

The business, formerly carried on by David Spencer Sr., and known all over the northwest as Spencer's Arcade, has been converted into a joint stock company for family reasons. The nominal capital is $250,000, but there is no change in the financial or other departments of the big concern. The firm name will be David Spencer Limited, and the board of directors will be as follows: David Spencer Sr., managing director; Chris Spencer, David Spencer Jr., T. A. Spencer, J. W. Spencer and J. V. N. Spencer.

The annual meeting of the Daughters of Pity will be held on Monday, October 31, at 4 p.m.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and Vicinity—Moderate winds, shifting to easterly, fair to-day with showers on Thursday.

The Fifth Regiment band is nearing home. This week it is playing an engagement at Spokane, according to an arrangement by Bandmaster Finn, before his departure for St. Louis.

The popularity of baseball among Victorians seems to have declined to a certain extent during the past season. Two years ago games were played every week and the Oak Bay grounds were always crowded. Last summer the patronage began to fall off and the club found itself financially embarrassed.

The big freighter Nevada, belonging to the American-Hawaiian Company, is still in dock in Esquimalt.

Dr. Lewis Hall returned yesterday from Vancouver, where he has been attending the annual meeting of the B.C. Dental Association.

and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

THWARTING THUMB-SUCKING NOT ALWAYS SUCCESSFUL IN OLDER CHILD

Mrs. R. W. M. writes:—"May I have your leaflet entitled 'Methods of Curbing Thumb-sucking?' as our little girl of two and one-half still persists in sucking her fingers, usually the fore-finger. If I put tape, or some disagreeable tasting thing on it, she sucks some other finger, or else keeps at it until the taste has gone. We have no trouble at night as we keep her hands covered, but in daytime she gets so irritable if I keep mittens on her, or just cries and works until she gets them off."

"I enjoy your column so much and read it when I have a time for much else. Some time ago I read in your column a suggestion for removing cradle cap (the scale on top of baby's head) by the use of borax rubbed on with a soft cloth. I tried it and it is so effective and permanent that I wish more mothers knew of it. Perhaps a repetition of it would reach some new mother struggling with this scourge."

"I have found that a meat grinder is a source of amusement to my two little ones who hunt the parts in the drawer and put it together and play with it for a long time, running through old dry bread or bits of lettuce. A piece of biscuit dough and a small cutter is also a delight."

"I thank you for your helpful column."

ANSWER
And I thank you, for your nice letter and helpful suggestions and your experience with the borax. I hope other mothers try it and I'm always glad to know when the column suggestions have proven successful.

I'm sorry you missed the article published a short time ago on thumb-sucking. It dealt with your particular problem. I always feel that there is something wrong with the child's environment when a child of this age persists in thumb or finger-sucking.

There are so many more entrancing things to do than this. I must find out just why the child isn't interested in them. The child who finger-sucks at this age does it because his environment isn't stimulating to him, because he finds solace in this amusement when things go wrong and he feels defeated, or perhaps to draw attention to himself.

I believe it is better at this age to work hard to keep the child interested in active amusements, playing for outdoors, encouraging play with companions (because a child of this age seldom plays with anyone), and trying to ignore her finger-sucking. Instead of drawing attention to it by so many methods of thwarting her. The very young child reacts better to these thwarting measures, the older child is angry as you have noticed, and simply grows angry. Subtler methods are needed for her, along the above lines. I will be glad to forward you a copy of the release I spoke of which was printed in this department if you will write and ask me for the release of August 31. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Here is Something Important

We have two incompletely addressed envelopes which we are holding until we hear from the mothers who requested some leaflets recently.
Mrs. A. L. H. wrote for "Foods to be Added to the Diet from Six Weeks to One Year," and Mrs. A. N. J. requested the feeding leaflet, "Quietude for Small Boys and Girls," and "What to do When Baby Says
'No'." Won't both of you write again enclosing your full addresses?

ISHBEL DOES NOT USE MAKE-UP

Premier MacDonald's Daughter Tells New York Press
Her Predilections

New York, Oct. 4. (By Associated Press Staff Writer)—Miss Ishbel Macdonald, engaging twenty-six-year-old daughter of Britain's Scottish Premier, uses no make-up. She does not even powder her nose.

In a conversation with correspondents yesterday as the liner Berengaria approached New York she commented she never used cosmetics, preferring the natural complexion given her by years in the Scotch Highlands. "Make up," she answered a question, "no, I don't even powder my nose, although I sometimes have been urged to do so."

She told the correspondents she wished she could see a baseball game while in America, but she is not sure it will be arranged. She said she had often wondered about the game and wished she could see it played, that is, played as it should be played.

Baseball led to a discussion of other things typically American. "I'm sure," she said, "I'll find myself at home in America. Indeed I'm already so much at home I'm lapsing into the American language."

TO DISPEL ILLUSIONS

She remarked that she would like to dispel some illusions which seemed to have been held about her.

"I'm not fond of knitting and I am not a housekeeper," she said, adding she had been greatly misrepresented in her domestic leanings. On the contrary, she said, her ambitions run to social work, and so that she may have scope for that she hopes to keep on as a member of the London county council, corresponding to an American al-dermanic council.

"But, I've no idea of standing for Parliament," she added, "unless I find some ends necessary to serve which could be brought about better by so doing." She said that while she was in America she hoped to find time to study some phases of American social work; she is particularly anxious to watch the working of the juvenile courts in New York City.

NOT A TESTOTALER

"I'm not a testotaler," she remarked,
"but I don't drink, and I don't smoke.
I'm not particularly fond of outdoor sports, nor of dancing. You probably have been misled by what you have seen of me on this steamer. I've walked miles on this voyage, but at home, except at holidays, I walk comparatively little."

MANY SAILORS USE INSTITUTE GUILD REPORT INDICATES

Five hundred and sixty men and thirty-five apprentice boys availed themselves of the privileges of the Victoria Seamen's Institute, during the past month, it was announced by the president of the Ladies' Guild for Sailors, Mrs. Alice Thomson, at the monthly meeting held in the institute yesterday afternoon.

The secretary, Mrs. W. R. Sayer, gave an interesting report on hospital visiting, and twenty-five dollars was voted for relief work to assist seafaring patients in time of difficulty. Mrs.
Gordon Smith, treasurer, read her report and presented the various accounts, which were approved and ordered paid. Some necessary alterations were authorized to be made in the kitchen requirements. Mrs. Smith also reported the findings of Madame Claudet and herself, a committee selected at the last meeting to arrange for the installation of a radio in the institute. The instrument was heard during the serving of tea, and Madame Claudet and Mrs. Gordon Smith were thanked for their efforts in procuring what will be a source of great pleasure to all who may visit the institute during the winter months.

In response to an appeal for conveners for the Solarium tag day, the guild voted twenty-five dollars to the Solarium, following the precedent of last year. Mrs. Thomson told the guild that the large screen, which had been admired at the last meeting and to which Mr. Rodway had added the finishing touches, had been accepted by the Solarium and found both useful and interesting with its many brightly-colored pictures.

In the absence of Mrs. Finmore, the report of hospital visiting for St.
Joseph's was given by Mrs. Shonrock.
The report of the wool convener, Miss Schwartz, showed the gratifying number of socks as ten pairs, sweaters four, scarves two, and one cap. Members were asked to send in an invitation list to Mrs. Thomson of interested friends, who, together with subscribers, should be invited to attend the annual birthday tea, which will be held on November 7, at the Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute, and which, as in former years, will also take the form of a shower for the lighthouse boxes, to be packed and shipped soon after this date. Madame Claudet will arrange a musical programme for the afternoon, and Mrs. E. Vernon Thomson, Mrs. Snowden, and Miss Schwartz will be in charge of the tea.

The Woman's Day

By ALIENE RUNNER

Chicago gives us an illustration of the poorest sportsmanship in the world. It seems to me in the case of Caryl Frank MacArthur, divorced wife of Charles MacArthur, that she is Charles's friend, husband of the famous Helen Hayes.

Caryl, divorced MacArthur, in 1926 when he was poor and unknown. He did not contest the suit and because it was obvious to one who had lived with him that he was not earning enough for alimony, she accepted $250 settlement.

So far, so good, for an ambitious young woman. The only trouble was that she was too hasty. The very next year Charles MacArthur's play "Lulu Belle" brought him fame and money.
Immediately, instead of standing by her financial mistake, Caryl rushed into court to try to have the divorce decree set aside. She made no mention about loving MacArthur. She announced she didn't want him back.

Bid "Goodnight" to Sleeplessness

SLEEPLESSNESS is the direct result of overtaxed, underfed nerves. Just as soon as you give your nerves the extra nourishment they need you'll commence sleeping soundly and will feel like a different person again.

Ovaltine is not a mere haphazard mixture of its several ingredients, but is manufactured by an exclusive scientific process. Ovaltine retains, unimpaired, all the essential elements of its valuable ingredients—ripe barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk from England's richest pastures. It is the finest natural "pick-me-up" in the world for starved nerves.

Ovaltine taken just before you go to bed induces sleep as soon as your head touches the pillow : :

natural sleep. : : Builds up your system with new stores of energy and vitality while you slumber. And Ovaltine is so easily assimilated that every particle can be absorbed even by the weakest digestion.

Thousands of men and women who work by muscle or brain tell us that they have been able to persist in strenuous and nerve-taxing tasks only through the restorative goodness of Ovaltine. One cupful of Ovaltine contains more nourishment than 3 eggs or 12 cupfuls of beef tea.

Take a cup before you "turn in." You will awaken in the morning feeling wonderfully refreshed. Drink Ovaltine the year 'round for health. Made in England.
Sold at 50c, 75c, $1.25 and special $4.50 family size.
The larger tins are more economical to buy.

ENSURES SOUND, NATURAL SLEEP

A. WANDER LIMITED, 455 KING STREET WEST, TORONTO, ONT.

She merely wanted her "rights," meaning some of his money.

The courts refused to set aside her divorce decree. MacArthur remarked.
Then she sued for separate maintenance. This is still pending. The current comment, "Isn't that just like a woman?" makes me shudder. Yet it is just, in that the whole problem of alimony leaves womanhood open to criticism. Personally, I have never been able to see why an able bodied, self-supporting woman should take money from an ex-husband just for herself. If there are children, that is another thing. But for an ex-wife to enjoy a divorce until her ex-husband gets the rewards for years of work and then come forward and try to claim some of the money he made after she had divorced him seems even less sporting than the usual alimony case.

When Your Stomach Groans With Gas

When Sourness, Pain and Bloating Follow Every Meal

MAKE THIS SIMPLE TEST

If you really want stomach comfort—quick, certain and lasting relief from the usual annoyance of old-fashioned drugs—make this simple Never Failing test to-day!

At trifling cost, get from your nearest druggist a few tiny tablets of Bisulfate of Magnesia—and take three or four of them after your next meal.
This is a simple, pleasant inexpensive test that can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances relief comes instantly.

Pure Bismuthated Magnesia (now in handy tablet form) is harmless, non-irritative, preparation of old-fashioned Magnesia with Bismuth that, when taken after meals, soothes, cleanses, sweetens and neutralizes the dangerous stomach acids that cause most of the stomach ailments. Ask your druggist for Tablets of Bismuthated Magnesia—and start the test to-day! (Adv.)

THE SPORTS MIRROR

PITTSBURGH Pirates, who will play under the management of Frank Fredrickson, member of the old Victoria Cougars, this season will undergo a complete reconstruction. The crew will be thoroughly overhauled and some of the deadwood will be removed, while the addition of new players and up-and-coming amateurs is expected to work a revival in the club and an improvement in their standing. Pittsburgh dropped to the lowly state of last position in the American section of the N.H.L. last winter, but with the infusion of new blood all around hope to regain their old status.

Benny Leonard will again control the Pittsburgh club, of which he is apparently main stockholder. The Pirates are attempting to sign Walter Kirtz, brother of the brilliant Hec of the Ottawa team, to strengthen their right wing. Money will be spent lavishly, reports state, in an effort to lure seasoned players from other clubs, in addition to arranging trades, although the Pirates have little of trading value out of players who are to be retained.

While in Montreal recently, James F. Callaghan, Pittsburgh lawyer, and spokesman for the Pirates at N.H.L. meetings, declared that Miller and McCaffrey will both remain with the Pirates. Both were popular with the Pittsburgh fans, he states. He further declares that Pittsburgh is a great hockey town normally, and in spite of their lowly standing the Pirates did well last season. While in Montreal, Callaghan attempted to sign a number of young amateurs.

The other evening up in Hartford, Conn., a young man named Christopher "Bats" Battalino stepped briskly out of the woods and batted the ears of Andre Routs from under the featherweight crown.

Even before the affair was staged, Routs had expressed a longing to abandon the noble profession of boxing for the more or less exciting business of running a cafe. He got $30,000 for his end. A goodly crowd was there, and it was fairly well known to all that a champion was about to be bumped off. Most of them came to see how it would be done.

In the same city about twenty-eight years ago, Terrible Terry McGovern, then featherweight champion, laid an unknown lad named Young Corbett. A colorful and confident cutie, this Young Corbett, but famous mostly in his own province.

They didn't know whether it was gameness or bravado, or perhaps psychology, when Young Corbett stopped on his way to the ring that night. He had lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake. Therefore Bat hadn't lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake.

He had lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake. Therefore Bat hadn't lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake.

Jack Hendricks has resigned as manager of the Clatsop team. That seems to spike effectively all the rumors that Jack was about to be fired.

To-day's play for baseball winery is divided three ways between Bredon of the St. Louis Cardinals; John J. McGraw of the New York Giants; and Judge Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves. They all let Rogers Hornsby go.

George Simpson, the fastest human, is a football candidate at Ohio State. Wonder if they'll let him use starting blocks?

Bucky Harris is hunting for an outfielder, a shortstop, a third baseman and a couple of pitchers. Otherwise the Detroit Tigers are pretty well off.

Major League Clubs Fail to Draw Mr. Fan

Win Decision With Weatherman But Turnstiles Remain Fairly Silent

Cubs Win Another at Expense of Reds; Hornsby Slips in Batting Race

Major league baseball out-painted the weatherman yesterday, but lost all decisions to the fans who refused to give the turnstiles a workout. Only the New York-Philadelphia game was postponed in a schedule of four, and that postponement was ordered more to make a double bill at which to close the Baker Bowl season on Saturday than from any necessity imposed by the weather.

The Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds again had the National League stage to themselves. The Bruins seized the opportunity to win another game and so to forge ahead of the Hendricks force in the series by two decisions to one. The turn was 3-1.

Pete Donohue was punished severely, yielding twelve hits and all of the eight runs in five and a fraction innings before Marvin Gudat rushed to the rescue. Joe McCarthy divided his box work among three men, Hal Carlson, Art Nehf and Pat Malone.

Rogers Hornsby got only one safe blow in five attempts and faded definitely from the race for the National League batting championship, which seems to belong to Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia. The rajah's chances of finishing second now are none too good.

INDIANS NOSED OUT The St. Louis Browns fared out the Cleveland Indians by 3-2 in ten innings through two late rallies against Willis Huddell, and retained a chance to the Peck's club for third place. The Browns must take three more in succession to Portland. Borran's homer accounted for the only tally for the visitors.

In the other American League game, Ted Lyons pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over Detroit at St. Louis. Lyons' fourteenth victory of the season for the seventh place Pale Horse.

COAST LEAGUE San Francisco, Oct. 4.—The San Francisco Mission Reds went into tie with Hollywood for first place in the Coast League race yesterday by defeating Seattle 13-1, while Hollywood was losing to Portland. Borran's homer accounted for the only tally for the visitors.

Miss Collett Recovers to Gain Victory

Defending U.S. Women's Golf Champion Wins After Opponent Is Dormie Four

Will Meet Mrs. O. S. Hill To-day; Bernice Wall and Mrs. Pressler Winners

Birmingham, Mich., Oct. 4.—Gienna Collett arose to a fighting zenith never before equaled in United States women's golf, yesterday, to turn back the spectacular challenge of Mrs. Harley Hight of Detroit in the quarter-finals of the thirty-third, classic at Oakland Hills.

Cornered by a dormie four disadvantage, she refused to quit, fighting her rival with a relentless attack of birdies and pars that finally netted her victory on the nineteenth hole.

Miss Collett's triumph, as hard earned as it was, lifted her to greater favor among the galleries to win her fourth United States, crown since 1922 and her second in two years. To-day Miss Collett must face the only woman in America who has a fifty-fifty record against her, Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, who shot a record-breaking 78 to defeat Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit, 2 and 1 yesterday.

Mrs. Hill defeated Miss Collett on the eighteenth green in the 1928 north and south championship, while the Pebble Beach, California, marvel stopped her in the first round of the 1926 United States tournament by the same margin.

In the lower bracket semi-final skirmish to-day, Bernice Wall of Oakland, Wis., who defeated Mrs. Leo Federman of New York, 1 up, yesterday, meets Mrs. Leona Pressler, Los Angeles. Mrs. Pressler reached the round yesterday by stopping Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, 3 and 1.

Los Angeles, Oct. 4.—Except for a wild second inning which netted four runs, Hollywood was unable to effectively contest with the offerings of the Portland hurler, Walters, and the Stars dropped the third game of the series yesterday, 9-5. The count now stands: Los Angeles 1, Hollywood 1. R. H. E. Portland 2 4 2 Hollywood 4 8 0

Batteries—Walters and Tomlin; Hollerson, Hulvey and Severid.

Oakland, Oct. 4.—Oakland nosed out Los Angeles, 2-1, yesterday, in a game featured by a great pitching duel between Barfoot and McAvoy. The lone run for the Stars was scored by Barfoot, who earned and held the visitors to three scattered hits. The Oaks scored their 'counters in the second frame.

R. H. E. Los Angeles 1 3 1 Oakland 2 4 2 Batteries—Barfoot and Sandberg; McAvoy and Read.

Stockton, Oct. 4.—Sacramento and San Francisco battled to another close decision yesterday in the final mid-week game of the season at Stockton, with the Senators winning 1-0. A rare pitcher's battle between Ed Bryan and Curt Davis waged, with the hits yielded favoring the home hurler, 5 against 0.

R. H. E. Sacramento 1 6 0 San Francisco 0 0 0 Batteries—Davis and Penobsky; Bryan and Koehler.

At Cincinnati—R. H. E. Cincinnati 8 6 0 Cincinnati 1 10 0 Batteries—Carlson, Nehf, Malone and Schulte; Donohue, Gudat and Sukeforth.

New York at Philadelphia, postponed, wet grounds.

At St. Louis—R. H. E. Cleveland 2 10 3 St. Louis 3 8 1 Batteries—Hudlin and L. Sewell; Crowder and Farrell.

At Chicago—R. H. E. Detroit 7 9 6 Chicago 3 11 1 Batteries—Hogsett, Page and Hayworth; Hargrave, Lyons and Antry.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 4.—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch to-day says that Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, is expected to announce Sunday that he will not renew the managerial contract of Dan Howley, and that Howley will announce he has severed connections permanently with the American League club.

Soccer Teams Settle Down

Keen Competition Being Seen in Practically All Leagues in British Isles

London Oct. 4.—Soccer clubs in the British Isles have settled down for their long season's work. Competition among the leading sides in the English League is quite keen, except in the Northern Section of the Third Division, where Port Vale, demoted from the Second Division, are playing a strong game. They are four points ahead of Stockport County, though the latter club has games in hand.

In the First Division only three points separate the leading clubs, Leeds United, and the fourteenth in the championship.

In the Second Division Oldham Athletic have pulled out into a clear lead and have not been beaten so far.

Plymouth Argyle and Southend United are going strong in the Southern Section of the Third Division. In Scotland, Rangers are again setting the pace, followed by Aberdeen and Kilmarnock.

Walker, who recently signed to meet the "wildcat" at Wrigley Field on the night of October 29, has been in training for more than a week. Located at Soper's Ranch in the Ventura Hills to the northeast, the Rumson, N.J., rocker, has started mixing his daily road work with some active ring performing against a corps of sparring partners.

The champion's programme calls for a steady diet of boxing for the next four days. Hudkins, who has been training down since his fight with Joe Anderson, will not enter into strenuous work before next week. His manager-brothers, Clyde and Art, said their chief worry was that of keeping the ace from over-training. The Nebraska is down to 162 pounds now. He plans to enter the ring at 156.

Walker took up the conditioning grind with approximately ten-pounds excessive weight, but is reported to be approaching his fighting weight again. Manager Jack Kearns said he would give the Jersey scrapper a few days rest following his strenuous week of work with the bags and sparring partners.

Jack Doyle, promoter, announced a large opening day sale of tickets yesterday. Present seating arrangements will permit slightly more than 25,000 to see the fight.

Paperchase Is Planned By Hunt Club To-morrow

An increased number is expected to take part in the second paperchase of the Victoria Hunt Club to-morrow, when the course will be laid over the lower island for a distance of approximately six miles.

Several members have already made reservations for horses and many others are expected to turn out for the run.

Following the chase, tea will be served in the Empress Hotel, where a meeting will bring the club's activities for the day to a close.

Information relating to the activities of the club may be secured from the honorary secretary, Jack Bessonetie, phone 1203 or 5312B.

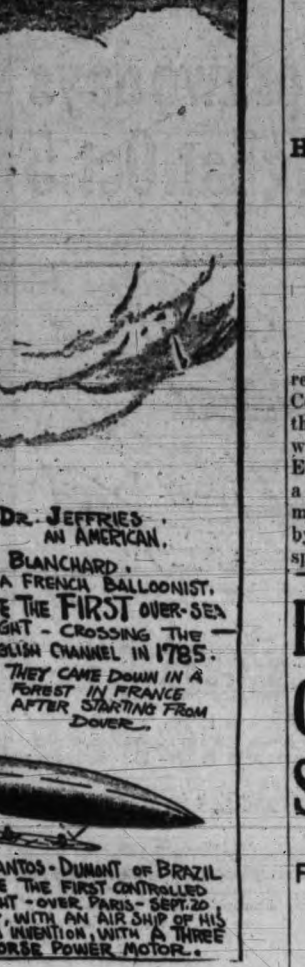

To-morrow's run will commence at 2 o'clock from the Williamson's Riding School.

RUDDY PRACTICE

The Canadian Scottish senior and intermediate ruggers will practice Sunday at the Willows at 10:30 o'clock. All players are requested to turn out.

PEDEN CUP GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

First Division Soccer Teams Meet in First Round of Series To-morrow

Westies Strengthen Up For Match With Five C's; Westholmes Play Esquimalt

Four First Division soccer teams will be engaged to-morrow in first round matches of the Peden Cup series. At Beacon Hill the Victoria Westies will meet the Five C's, while Esquimalt and the Westholmes will play at the Central Park. Both matches will start at 3.15 o'clock.

The greenhorns are fielding a greatly strengthened team for their match. Billy Milligan, who was a member of the Canadian All-Stars who toured New Zealand, will be at right wing, while White, formerly with Sapperton, will be at right half. The Five C's will have Edson Quanton out for the first time this season. He will play at inside left.

The Westholmes and Esquimalt are expected to put up a good match. In their last meeting the Dockers won by the odd goal, but the Westholmes are hoping to reverse the score this time.

The teams will be as follows: Five C's—Farquhar, Tuckwell, Harwood, Reg. Shanks, McConnell, Egan, Burns, Bradshaw, Cockin, Edson Quanton and Bob Shanks.

Victoria West—Hetherington, Lloyd, Thompson, White, Peden, Stewart, Milligan, Borde, Youson, Robinson and Mike.

Westholmes—Bennett, W. Campbell, Carmichael, D'Arcy, Banks, Clarke, McKennie, McNaughton, Sued, Bowman and Stickney.

Esquimalt—DeCosta, Sweeney, Joe Watt, Hosmer, Stewart, Roberts, Foster, "Scotty" Stewart, John Watt, Pepin and McAllister; reserves, Collier and Scanlon.

Frenchy Belanger Is Matched With European Champ

Toronto, Oct. 4.—Eugene Huat, European flyweight champion, has been signed to meet Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto, in the second round of the Shamrock Athletic Club's championship tournament on October 18. Matchmaker Brown announced last night that Belanger had accepted the challenge.

Belanger is a native of France, a marked interest in just what racquets, balls and gut is used in Canada.

Local tennis players and officials, who paid a visit to the ship to see Cochet, were greatly surprised at his slender build. However, the Frenchman is endowed with a wonderful pair of shoulders and it can be easily seen from where he derives his wonderful driving power.

TILDEN GREATEST Cochet paid a splendid tribute to William Tilden, veteran tennis star. "In my opinion Tilden is the greatest tennis star that ever lived," Cochet said. "However, it remains to be seen whether Rene Lacoste or myself can duplicate Bill's feat of retaining the world's singles championship for six years' running," the French star declared.

Asked as to whether or not Lacoste, who has been very ill during the last few months, would play tennis again, Cochet declared that he was practically certain the great star would return to the courts next season.

Loayaza Slows Up Comeback of Terris

New York, Oct. 4.—Stanislaus Loayaza, veteran lightweight from Chile, slowed up the comeback march of Sid Terris, one-time "ghost of the Chetto," by winning a ten-round match last night in the feature event at Madison Square Garden.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

PITTSBURGH Pirates, who will play under the management of Frank Fredrickson, member of the old Victoria Cougars, this season will undergo a complete reconstruction. The crew will be thoroughly overhauled and some of the deadwood will be removed, while the addition of new players and up-and-coming amateurs is expected to work a revival in the club and an improvement in their standing. Pittsburgh dropped to the lowly state of last position in the American section of the N.H.L. last winter, but with the infusion of new blood all around hope to regain their old status.

Benny Leonard will again control the Pittsburgh club, of which he is apparently main stockholder. The Pirates are attempting to sign Walter Kirtz, brother of the brilliant Hec of the Ottawa team, to strengthen their right wing. Money will be spent lavishly, reports state, in an effort to lure seasoned players from other clubs, in addition to arranging trades, although the Pirates have little of trading value out of players who are to be retained.

While in Montreal recently, James F. Callaghan, Pittsburgh lawyer, and spokesman for the Pirates at N.H.L. meetings, declared that Miller and McCaffrey will both remain with the Pirates. Both were popular with the Pittsburgh fans, he states. He further declares that Pittsburgh is a great hockey town normally, and in spite of their lowly standing the Pirates did well last season. While in Montreal, Callaghan attempted to sign a number of young amateurs.

The other evening up in Hartford, Conn., a young man named Christopher "Bats" Battalino stepped briskly out of the woods and batted the ears of Andre Routs from under the featherweight crown.

Even before the affair was staged, Routs had expressed a longing to abandon the noble profession of boxing for the more or less exciting business of running a cafe. He got $30,000 for his end. A goodly crowd was there, and it was fairly well known to all that a champion was about to be bumped off. Most of them came to see how it would be done.

In the same city about twenty-eight years ago, Terrible Terry McGovern, then featherweight champion, laid an unknown lad named Young Corbett. A colorful and confident cutie, this Young Corbett, but famous mostly in his own province.

They didn't know whether it was gameness or bravado, or perhaps psychology, when Young Corbett stopped on his way to the ring that night. He had lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake. Therefore Bat hadn't lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake.

He had lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake. Therefore Bat hadn't lost to practically everybody except the hard-hitting little Hartford chap, though the bouts were staged without a title at stake.

Jack Hendricks has resigned as manager of the Clatsop team. That seems to spike effectively all the rumors that Jack was about to be fired.

To-day's play for baseball winery is divided three ways between Bredon of the St. Louis Cardinals; John J. McGraw of the New York Giants; and Judge Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves. They all let Rogers Hornsby go.

George Simpson, the fastest human, is a football candidate at Ohio State. Wonder if they'll let him use starting blocks?

Mack Will Pit Strategy Against Clouting Circus

Sage Will Combat "Brute" Force With Great Experience

However, Few Solid Base Hits Can Ruin Greatest Strategy and Chicago Cubs Are Not Worrying Over Advantage Athletics Will Have in Vast Knowledge of Connie; Both Clubs Equipped With Smart Board of Heavy Thinkers; Mack Controls Every Move of His Team With Score Card.

(By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 4.—If the tactics of a baseball sage and master craftsman, guiding the play of his youthful talent by the wiggles of a score card; if strategy, in other words, develops as a vital factor in the forthcoming world's series, the Athletics seem likely to have the advantage of the Cubs.

It may contribute nothing to the advancement of science for "brute" force to triumph, yet it is a well-known baseball fact that a few solid base hits can overthrow the most cunning strategy. For that reason the clouting Cub circus probably is not worried by the threat of being outsmarted by Connie Mack and a strategic board of sages that numbers Kid Gleason, Eddie Collins and Ira Thomas. The Yankees have given ample proof that the home-run represents one of the cleverest methods known of offsetting enemy manoeuvres.

Nevertheless, the A's start with the benefit of Mack's long experience, his skillful player-manipulation, in a short series where every move counts, where the slightest tactical mistake may mean the difference between the winner's and loser's end of the pot.

For that matter, the Cubs can do plenty of heavy thinking, or contribute any amount of inside stuff on their own account with General Joe McCarthy in command, Colonel Jimmy Burke nearby for advice and Major Rogers, forward on the field to test his experience in the hands of Field Captain Charley Grimm.

A'S HAVE EDGE

Yet there is no doubt the master-minding honors, on the whole, belong to the A's. McCarthy was a school kid playing on the sand lots of Philadelphia when Connie Mack managed his first championship club in 1902. Even McGraw yields in technique to Mack, who controls the moves of every player with his famous score card, although he has denied the legend that he directs every pitch. No manager so assiduously studies of so carefully remembers the strength and weakness of opposing players as Mack. From the reports of Chief Scout Ira Thomas, who has been trailing the Cubs, the league leader probably has indexed all offensive and defensive habits of the National League champions.

"Newsboy" Brown Will Meet Dano

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—"Newsboy" Brown of New York and Pablo Dano of the Philippines, two flyweights ranked with the best in the game, will meet here to-night in a ten-round bout, under the auspices of the Olympic Club. Brown has beaten practically every topnotcher, including Speedy Dado, clever Filipino, whom he stopped in seven rounds. It was Dano's only defeat in this country. Dano is former flyweight champion of the Orient.

Eddie Mack Wins By a Knockout

Denver, Colo., Oct. 4.—Eddie Mack, junior lightweight, knocked out Joe Rivers of El Paso in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout here last night.

Canadian Rugby Season To Open Here To-morrow With Caps Playing V.A.C.

To-morrow will witness the opening of the Canadian rugby season in Victoria when the Capital oppose the Vancouver Athletic Club at the Royal Athletic Park. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Both teams will be at full strength and a keen match is anticipated. Coach Dick Wilson, of the Caps, has switched his team around considerably and says his boys will give the Mainlanders the scrap of their life.

The line-ups of the two teams were announced this morning as follows: Victoria—Scrum: Howlands; inside: Mawhood and Ford; middle: Ingleson and Burns; flying wing: Campbell; Forwards: outside, De Blaquiere and Gaud; quarters: Munro and Taylor; halves: Burgess and Gault; subs: Stagg, Hume, Sinclair, Hardy, Lemm, Bellam and Gilmore.

Vancouver—Scrum: J. Adams; inside: J. Foster and E. Gordon; middle: B. Gordon and Melroy; flying wing: Maguire; outside: Scouse and Finlayson; quarters: G. Giffen and Reid; halves: Anderson and Cotto; subs: Greenwood, Weeks, Tennant, Beardon, Wentworth, Livingston, Johnson and Fanning.

Sports Through Edgren's Eyes

By ROBERT EDGREN

Bobby Jones did one great thing for golf in the far west. He made speed popular. Western golfers have developed a habit of walking up to the green to study approaches, taking their time with all shots, peeping and peering about at the ground before putting, even brushing away imaginary obstacles to "get the feel" of the grass before putting. When the great Jones stepped up the tee and hit his first drive at Pebble Beach without even a preliminary wobble, and when he played every shot afterwards brightly and without the slightest waste of time, everybody gasped. During the tournament spectators began silently rooting against players who were a little too deliberate to suit them—and sometimes not so silently that the players didn't know it. Now the latest fad in western golf is to step right up, like Bobby Jones, and sock the ball.

Old Bill Tilden may have had a tough time getting through the list of younger players and winning the U.S. tennis singles, but after all he won. Old Bill may have slipped back a few notches, but he's still the best in America. Bill may not win many more tennis titles, but you can't take it away from Old Bill that he has made the greatest record of year after year wins in all the history of the sport.

Major Segrave of England, having journeyed to Daytona Beach and taken home the world's automobile speed record, is now threading his way among the gondolas at 22.8 miles an hour in an attempt to break the world's speedboat record on the smooth waters of Venice. Unfortunately the bottom of his fast boat, Miss England, was split in the first trial, which is a little like saying he ran close to the automobile record but lost a wheel.

Golf is one sport the young take to and become champions in at an early age. Among the year's fine golf performances is that of eighteen-year-old Helen Hicks of New York in winning the 72-hole medal play Derby with 78-78-83-81 for exactly par. And her nearest rival, fourteen strokes behind, was another young one—Virginia Van Wie. It used to be that being born with a golden spoon in one's mouth was an indication of quality. Now it is a wooden spoon. Or maybe a gold putter.

Tuffy Griffiths at 184 pounds will have to fight for the heavyweight championship. A few months ago the ballyhoo artists were boasting Sharkey and Schmeling as the two lone contenders. Now there are a few more. In time, perhaps, we will have a real champion to take the place of the long line of fighting men who have held the heavyweight title.

In the past, ballyhoo isn't going to put a "champion" over, after all.

There is an agitation for an open championship tournament to put a little new life into tennis. Why not? The open championships in golf have been very interesting, have drawn big crowds, and have done a lot to make golf popular. Also the hide-bound amateur world has learned that it is quite possible to associate with professional players without letting up the spoons.

Cochrane Is "Pepper" Of Macks

Greatest Catcher in History of Baseball Can Hit, Throw and Run.

Will Catch Every Game for Cubs Barring Injuries; Cubs Have Four Backstops

By BRYAN BELL

Associated Press Writer
New York, Oct. 4.—The Cubs outnumber the Athletics in catchers, three and one-half to two, but it seems reasonable to suggest that Connie Mack would not trade the brilliant Gordon Cochrane for the Cub receivers. Hartnett is the Cub's half—he can catch but cannot throw. However, he can hit and probably will be seen during the series with a bat in his hand, even if he is denied the privilege of donning the catching armor.

When Cochrane goes out to yell "right here" for the first time in the series, he will be entered for the duration of the war, barring incapacitating injuries. If he is hurt, Cy Perkins, a spy veteran, will be the relief. Should Cochrane and Perkins both fall by the wayside, Jimmy Fox would move in from first base.

The Cub catching staff consists of Zach Taylor, former New York Giant, Brooklyn Robin and Boston Brave. The bulk of the receiving will fall on his capable shoulders with a chance that Mike Gonzales, another veteran, may see action. John Schmitz, the former Cardinal, is the other spare.

Hartnett, who will not catch, is the only .300 hitter on the Chicago staff. Taylor and Gonzales bat a .370 clip and Schmitz much lower.

Cochrane is a consistent .300 hitter, while Perkins is 100 points away.

PACKS "PEPPER"

The broad shoulders of the hustling young Philadelphia star will carry the burden for the American League. Cochrane can throw, hit and run. He probably is the fastest catcher the game has known in a generation and with Jimmy Dykes, packs most of the "pepper" of the club.

—Cochrane is the greatest piece of catching mechanism I ever saw," said Ty Cobb, who saw catchers come and go in the American League for a quarter of a century.

Intimate Sketches of World Series Stars

LEFTY GROVE
Lefty Grove is six feet two inches of brawn and muscle. . . . He looks as if he needed a few teeth pulled.

As you give the up and down to his lean figure, you wonder where he gets his terrific speed. . . . Inclined to be temperamental, he is easily provoked when one of his teammates errs or he thinks the umpire has missed a strike. He works slowly, almost methodically, and it is said he counts up to ten between each pitch.

Has more speed than any southpaw pitcher since the days of "Rube" Waddell. . . . Has passed the twenty mark in victories and hopes to reach twenty-two wins. . . . Leads the American League in strikeouts. . . . Connie Mack rates him a more valuable southpaw than "Rube" Waddell, but places him second to Eddie Plank as to team value. . . . Is almost certain to be Mack's starting pitcher in the opening game.

CHARLEY ROOT
Charley Root, veteran pitching ace of the Chicago Cubs, was turned loose once by the St. Louis Browns.

He insists that is something he will never be able to live down, as the Browns had a terrible team the year he was given the gate. . . . Root is having a good year after a rather mediocre one. Worked overtime in 1927 in an effort to bring a pennant to Chicago, he showed the effects of the strain last season.

Fear that he had been permanently injured by too much work a few years back, he has been entirely dispelled by his superlative hurling this year. . . . Root, while he still has fine speed and a great curve, no longer depends entirely on his physical assets for success. . . . His style of pitching is the brand that bothers the Athletics. . . . Sure to see plenty of service against the Mackmen.

CHILDREN SEE CATHEDRAL

Lauches and Automobiles With Parties For Festival To-morrow

Children from the Gulf Islands, traveling by launch and automobiles, will join others from the city and lower part of Vancouver Island at the "Children's Festival" to be held to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the new Christ Church Cathedral.

All Anglican Sunday Schools in Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, the Sanich Peninsula, and beyond Cowichan district, are arranging for delegations of boys and girls to be present at to-morrow's service. Other local organizations are also sending representatives.

Printed forms of service will be distributed at the cathedral, containing the hymns and responses specially prepared for the first children's service in the new church.

The Dean, Very Rev. C. S. Quinlan, will represent the Bishop, who is away attending to other engagements in church work. The addresses will be given by the archdeacon, Ven. E. P. Laycock. The cathedral choir boys, under Stanley Bulley, will lead the singing.

The service is to be repeated on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the benefit of parents who wish to bring younger children. Beginning on Sunday, children's services will be conducted regularly in the cathedral at 3 p.m.

"Danger," Coal Mine Thriller, Will Be Produced To-night

Some of the best local talent has been secured for the entertainment at Progressive Theatre, Temple to-night, in connection with the celebration of World Day for Animals. In addition to the musical programme the play "Danger" will be presented by the L. Roseboom, J. Pudney and G. B. Kitchin. The scene is laid in a Welsh coal mine in which a party of visitors are trapped during an explosion. The feelings of those entombed, their various moods as their danger increases, and the supreme sacrifice of one of the party tend to make this play one of the most interesting short plays ever presented. It was written by Richard Hughes.

Members of the Welsh Society, who have kindly consented to assist in the presentation of the play, will also contribute a diet later in the evening. Dr. Parry's beautiful "Flow Gently, Devo" has been selected for this performance.

HILL LAUDS PEACE AREA IN REPORT

Chamber of Commerce Delegate to Parley Gives Detailed Account

People in Peace River Block Happy and Prosperous, He Finds

C. P. Hill, special delegate from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to the convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Edmonton and Calgary this summer, gave a detailed and comprehensive report to the directors of the chamber at luncheon to-day.

Covering every phase of the convention and of the trip made by delegates through the Peace River area, the report was heard with much interest by the board members. Following are excerpts of special interest from the report by the delegate.

"The crops near the old town of Peace River were not so good as we had been seeing before. The soil is lighter and the country more rolling, and showed more signs of drought than the country in and towards the British Columbia Peace River Block, and while the yield was not bad, it would not compare favorably with what we had been seeing, except in spots, while the whole country was excellent and showing big yields everywhere else.

PEOPLE LOOK WELL.

"Grande Prairie and Peace River are the two largest towns in their district, while Peace Coups and Hells are the largest towns in the British Columbia block. They are all typical farming towns, having the usual schools, churches, stores, public halls, picture shows, etc. In every case the people all appeared to be very happy, healthy and prosperous. The number of tire closed motor cars furnished for our use was an astonishing evidence of the whole people of that Peace River country.

"Altogether I have never been anywhere or seen any country that appeared to be so easily put under cultivation in such large quantities of land would yield so many bushels of grain to the acre. In addition to this, I have had several good reports from the mining section of the Peace River country, that held out by the present development of producing enough tonnage to warrant the building of a railway to the Pacific coast within a reasonable time, where we hope to have a smelting plant."

COVER WIDE RANGE.

Mr. Hill went on to outline the work done at the sessions of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, giving his impressions of several of the outstanding speakers and speaking of the wide range of subjects covered by the parley.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Hill by the directors for his work at the convention and in preparation for the report. P. B. Fowler, president, who attended the convention, declared Mr. Hill had done considerable energetic work for this city at the meeting.

Screaming Horses Are Rescued From Burning Structure

Plunging and screaming, three horses stabled in the Cameron Lumber Company barn on Campbell Road last night were rescued from suffocation by firemen who arrived on the scene to attend a blaze which broke out in a hay loft.

The fire, which was only of small dimensions, broke out shortly after 9 o'clock. Pense columns of smoke issued from the building, although the blaze itself was only small.

The screaming of the horses attracted attention of the first fire-fighters on the scene and after they had been released short work was made of the fire.

Real Estate Men Further Quiz Zoning

Appoint Committee to Go Into By-law More Fully; Discontent Expressed

Some Classes Said to Be Ambiguous; Attorney-General Not Willing to Explain

Criticism of the zoning by-law, characterized as a drastic, unfair and useless measure, brought about the appointment of a committee to go into the matter thoroughly at the luncheon meeting of the Real Estate Board in Spencer's dining-room to-day.

It was pointed out that the effect of zoning on many land owners who had retained property and paid taxes was most unjust. Many had reserved property only to find that it could not be used for what it was intended, it was stated.

Major M. Fitzpatrick-Crockett suggested that delegates be sent to the Attorney-General to see if some change could be made.

Fred. Landsberg replied that when he had approached Attorney-General Pooley asking about some ambiguous clauses in the by-law, Mr. Pooley referred him to the act.

Mr. Leeming voiced the popular opinion that the by-law should be made flexible in order that difficult situations could be handled successfully.

H. E. Harman noted there was a general impression that the zoning by-law affected residential districts only and would be subject to change.

S. G. Clark suggested a committee be formed to consider the by-law in detail. He noted that the grievances would be multiplied as time went on. The suggestion was accepted.

At the conclusion of the meeting the suggestion was made that a daily sales report, such as is printed in Vancouver, should be started here.

The matter was left to the executive to consider.

At the monthly meeting of the Cowichan Chapter, I.O.D.E. held at the residence of Mrs. A. J. Kyle, Wednesday afternoon, with the Regent, Mrs. F. H. Price, in the chair, it was decided that the poppies for the floral cross will be purchased from the crippled soldiers war veterans.

I.O.D.E. calendars will be purchased and placed in the schools in Duncan and at Cowichan Lake.

The financial report was read and adopted.

The sum of $14, balance of quota, will be sent to the I.O.D.E. War Memorial Fund. Members were urged to buy Canadian and British-made Christmas cards.

Letter of thanks from the secretary of the Queen Alexandra Soldiers' was received, acknowledging receipt of $241 donated by the chapter as the result of Alexandra rose tag day.

The regent offered her home for a card party to be held on Thursday, October 17.

Mrs. Kyle's offer of her home as a place to hold the meetings was accepted and members will provide tea. Miss Jackson offered to act as hostess at the next meeting.

Tea was served by Mrs. Kyle and the English closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

DUNCAN CENOTAPH TO BE DECORATED ON ARMISTICE DAY

I.O.D.E. Will Purchase Poppies For Floral Cross From Crippled War Veterans

Duncan, Oct. 4.—Decorations of the Cenotaph here on Armistice Day will be arranged by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

NEW ROADS ARE SOUGHT ON ISLAND

Continuation of Sooke River Road Suggested to Chamber of Commerce

Chamber Gratified With Campbell River Power Award

Extension of the Sooke River Road to the southern end of Sooke Lake, connecting up with Shawinigan Lake, is the object of a move started by the Victoria branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia. In a letter received by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the backing of the Chamber for such a project is sought.

Another suggestion for road improvement from the club was the reconditioning of the Finlayson Arm Road from the Island Highway to the West Saanich Road.

It was pointed out that while the Automobile Club was greatly interested in tourist trade, it had not adopted a policy of recommending new roads. Therefore it was suggested the Chamber of Commerce might consider the question and possibly recommend the plan to the authorities.

The matter was referred to the tourist trade group of the Chamber for consideration.

The directors of the Chamber were to-day formally advised of the awarding of Campbell River power rights to the B.C. Electric Railway Company by the Government and the secretary was advised to communicate with the Government expressing the compliments of the Chamber at the successful settlement of the question.

Stewart Williams, chairman of the Chamber's entertainment committee, reported that no arrangement could be made for an official reception of the Purvis-Burns-Baker party on her first arrival from the United Kingdom on October 19, as she would be in port only a short time.

The aviation committee, R. H. B. Ker, chairman, reported upon its recent discussion of Esquimalt Harbor as a seaplane port with the industrial committee of the City Council. This question will probably be discussed by the Chamber following a meeting to be held by civic officials next Tuesday.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Oct. 4.—The wheat market experienced another quiet day with trade again largely local, although early there was fair buying of October by export houses against sales made overnight. Prices held within a somewhat narrow range, being one cent up to three-quarters of a cent lower, but the upturns were difficult to hold, as offerings increased and there was evidence that some tired holders were liquidating. However, the market received fair support on the declines and altogether gave a pretty good account of itself.

Weakness in Chicago at times had the tendency to pull Winnipeg down. The cash wheat market was again very slow. Shippers were after certain of the low grades, but offerings were extremely light and spreads were unchanged to one-half better. Two or three export houses confirmed a small export business worked overnight, and seaboard estimated sales at 500,000 bushels, mostly Manitobas.

The pool stated that they had not offered a bushel last night following yesterday's decline in prices. There was no interest in durums. During the final ten minutes the market recovered almost two cents, with the buying appearing to be all short covering.

Coarse grains.—These markets held steady, but outside of a good eastern Canadian demand for oats, with 100,000 bushels sold, there was not much doing. Barley and rye were very dull.

Flax.—Dull, steady market. Trade very light and prices about unchanged. No feature.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIME

DOROTHY DIX

A CORRESPONDENT asks: "Why do men marry?"
Mainly, perhaps, because of the biological urge that prompts every man to set up his own home and found his own family. Every man wants to carry on his name and perpetuate himself. Fatherhood is, in part, the expression of man's craving for immortality.

Men marry because they are in love with some woman. Or think they are for the time being. The mysterious power that we call sex attraction draws a man to some particular girl and he feels that life will be cinchier, ashier and dustier unless he can possess her for his very own. Temporarily, at least, he considers her the most beautiful, the most fascinating, the wisest, wittiest and most altogether charming being on earth, and he is willing to make any sacrifice and sign on the dotted line of any contract to secure this paragon to himself.

Sometimes this infatuation lasts. Often it doesn't. But it is while men are under its influence that most of them marry. Very few men ever deliberately and with set purpose commit matrimony. In fact, most of them, perceiving the restrictions it imposes upon their brethren and the burden it lays upon them, are set and determined not to be inveigled into the holy state under any pretext whatsoever, and then, just as they are feeling safe and secure and patting themselves upon the back for being so fussy, there comes along some maiden with a peaches-and-cream complexion and a come-hither look in her eye and it is all over except the ringing of the wedding bells.

In other countries, with a more sophisticated social system than ours, men often marry for the material advantages they will get out of it, but the Canadian or American man is very seldom influenced by any such sordid considerations. Rich girls with as notoriously few suitors than poor ones. Indeed, statistics show that there are more old maids among millionairesses than in any other class of women. It is love, and nothing but love, that prompts the new world man to assume a silk-lined board bill and shopping ticket, and so, however a marriage turns out in the end, it is certain that it was love that drove the man into it at the beginning.

Men marry for homes far oftener than women do. It is all very well to say that a man can get better cooked food in a club or a restaurant than he can in his own dining-room and the little tailor around the corner can execute a neater darn than any wife can and that he can set up his own house with his own household goods in it and with perfectly trained servants to run it if he wants to. These things don't make a home and no man can make a home by himself; no, not even if he puts a tidy on every chair and hangs a canary in every window. The only way to turn a house into a home is to put a wife in it.

So there comes a psychological moment when a man ups and pops the question to the woman who is nearest to him or the woman he has been going to see for ten years without ever having come to the point, simply because he is homesick.

Because he has got to the place where he is sick and tired of the "a la" of a French chef and craves corned beef and cabbage. Or because he is worn out with fighting with laundries about missing shirts and collars and trying to remember to send his things out to the presser. Or because coming home to a dark and solitary room has got on his nerves and he wants to return of an evening to a lighted house with somebody waiting to welcome him back. Or because he has fallen for the advertisements of a rose-wreathed bungalow in the suburbs.

Men marry because they want somebody to tell things to. Somebody to whom they can tell the things that they would be ashamed to tell another man. That is why every man has to have a feminine confidante.

Every man in reality marries to get a clique and a shoulder to weep on. A man wants some woman that he can go to in his hour of triumph, and who will listen and beg for more while he boasts of his achievements and tells how great and wonderful he is. And he still more wants some woman to whom he can go when things have gone wrong and he is broken and beaten, and who will pour over his wounded vanity the healing ointment of her pity and sympathy and admiration, and who will make him feel as if he was an unappreciated martyr instead of being a rank failure.

Men marry because they are eternally little boys who never outgrow the need for a mother. They can't be happy unless they have some woman around to mother them, some woman who will always be looking out for their personal comfort, who will make the kind of pie they like best, and put the buttons in their shirts and have their slippers toasted before the fire when they come home at night; who will be anxious about their health and worried if their appetites fail and think they are going to die every time they have a headache.

Some woman who will always think they are right and mean old boys was to blame if they lose their job, or that a designing woman took them in, no matter if she is sixteen and they are sixty, if they are a little. Some woman who will pet and spoil them and give them an occasional spank, even as mother used to do.

And men marry many a time and oft because women have picked them out for husbands and put the good thought upon them. They never knew by what means they arrive at the altar, nor how it was that they happened to pick out the particular women they did for wives, but the women do.

Oh, men marry for many reasons, and not the least among them is because marriage furnishes a man with a perfect and unassailable alibi for all he does, and all he doesn't do. He can always lay all of his sins of omission and commission upon his wife.

French Lad Became "Man of the Family"

Francis-Pierre, six years old, clasped his little brother's hand very tightly. The two of them were going to visit their father, who was in prison, because he had made enemies during the Revolution in France.

The two boys were frightened. It was all so strange. Their mother had cried so much that now she was ill. Their father was shut up, away from them. They wanted him to come home, and whenever they were taken to see him they begged him to return with them. The little boys arrived at the big stone prison. They were taken into the room where their father sat, looking very pale and thin. He hugged his two little boys and told them he was soon going away, and that they must look after their mother. Francis-Pierre, as the oldest, felt very important. He promised to take good care of his mother and little brother until his father came back. Then they kissed him and went away. They never saw their father alive again. Francis-Pierre Guizot grew up to make his mother proud of him, as he had told his father he would do. He was a great French statesman, and his father was shut up, away from them. They wanted him to come home, and whenever they were taken to see

To-morrow's Horoscope

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1929

Astrologers read this as a fairly favorable day with a strongly dominant benefic aspect apparent. It should be a fortunate way for women making for the fulfillment of their best professional and business ambitions. Weddings to-day are subject to a direction of the stars that seems to promise financial security as well as lasting love in the domestic partnership. This should be a lucky day for entering into an engagement to marry and especially favorable to announcements. Theatres should profit at this time which is held to encourage plays of high class and original plot. New inventions are to improve motion pictures which are to become really artistic. Many amalgamations and affiliations will mark all lines of business, it is foretold, and centralization of money will be marked as the year closes. All the signs continue to press great prosperity for banks and bankers. Women financiers are to attain success. Newspapers are subject to a sway that is read as promising tremendous enterprise and development which brings added fortunes to their owners. There is a sign that is believed to indicate for retail merchants certain changes in policy and readjustments affecting department stores. A new air route in which Great Britain is interested is prophesied as an aid to trade. London astrologers foretell remarkable commercial development abroad. There is a sign of good promise for hospitals and other institutions established for human welfare. Persons whose birthdate is the anniversary of a year's prosperity, but they should control their emotions and avoid romantic entanglements. Children born on this day have the best opportunities usually and many subjects of this sign of Libra attain fame. Chester A. Arthur, twenty-first President of the United States, was born on this day, 1829. Others who celebrated it as a birthday were Jonathan Edwards, 1703, noted theologian, and John Vanderlin, 1779, famous artist.

TWO VILLAINS ARE TACKLED BY KEN MAYNARD IN FILM

Instead of one there are two villains in "The Lawless Legion" Ken Maynard's latest western feature now showing at the Columbia Theatre. These men are Paul Hurst, and J. P. McGowan, and both have appeared with Ken in previous pictures but this is the first time they have practiced their villainy in the same production.

MUSICAL SCORE OF COLISEUM PICTURE SPLENDIDLY DONE

"In Old Arizona," the feature picture at the Coliseum Theatre this week over the new talkie machine installed recently, continues to be popular with a large number of theatre patrons who have visited the Coliseum every night this week. The last performance in Victoria will be given to-morrow when the picture will run during the afternoon and evening.

That the new talkie machine is an outstanding success has been abundantly proved this week. Every sound and vocal syllable is distinctly heard in even the most remote corner of the theatre and the voices are clear. The musical score is splendid and throughout the picture runs that popular melody "My Tonia" which is the theme song.

The plot of the picture is a gripping one.

COWBOY'S SHOUT PUT MICROPHONE OUT OF ORDER

A cowboy's piercing yip is the latest straw to break the microphone's resistance.

It happened at Paramount's Hollywood studios a few weeks ago while scenes in a circus "big top" were being filmed for "Dangerous Curves." Clara Bow's new starring picture, which is showing at the Dominion Theatre.

The blare of brass bands, cheers of the crowd and oratory of the ringmasters were recorded without difficulty. The wild west riders then thundered on to the track with a chorus of shrill whoops.

One piercing yell proved too much for the microphones. They quit cold until the leather-lunged, offending cowboy was induced to tone his voice.

WITCHCRAFT AND SORCERY CREATE WEIRD BACKGROUND

Four white men sentenced to mysterious deaths by a sinister Papuan witch-doctor—three of the four succumbing in turn to the grim prediction—the terrified survivor bartering a fortune in pearls for life and safety—such is the stirring climax of "Black Magic," George B. Seitz's first Fox Films effort, now showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

The eerie atmosphere of sorcery and witchcraft is well maintained. John Holland and Henry B. Walthall head the exceptional cast.

Gyros Clever In Brilliant Musical Show

"Keep 'em Smiling" Stirs Enthusiasm of Audience on Opening Night

Local Artists Rock House With Their Sayings and Antics

Members of the Victoria Gyro Club, who have built up a reputation for their musical show, productions, last night put over their biggest success yet when they opened a three nights' run of "Keep 'em Smiling" at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

The cast of the show is made up from members of the club and local musical and theatrical talent, all under professional direction from a Broadway directing producer who has been here coaching them. The company has been so well drilled and its members enter into their parts with such enthusiasm and ability, that the production as seen from the dark side of the footlights could quite properly be taken for a professional show. It went off with a swing; there were no delays, and it was all over by 11 o'clock with an audience which showed much enthusiasm and enjoyment.

Two more big houses will greet the show to-night and to-morrow.

Miss Olive Hartree and Gyro Bill Cameron as the principals proved to be the stars of the occasion. They played the roles of an adoring and deprecating wife, and of the self-deprecating and domestically governed husband. She has social ambitions which are not by a long way in keeping with her husband's pocketbook. Her ambition mounts from that for a love nest with a Victoria and a percolator to one which, sophisticatedly takes to a $25,000 mansion and an income of $15,000. The husband is more insignificant in his firm than his wife. The domestic situation gives the background for the development of many humorous situations and the

DRINKWATER IS MAN OF THEATRE

His Interest Is in Dramatic Truth, Declares Author of "Bird in Hand"

John Drinkwater, author of "Bird in Hand," the comedy hit to be presented by Lee Shubert at the Royal Theatre for three days, beginning Thursday, October 10, has often been recommended by history teachers as a portrait of historic characters, as he is the dramatizer of "Abraham Lincoln," "Oliver Cromwell," "Robert E. Lee," and "Mary Stewart." But Drinkwater prefers to be classified more simply as a "man of the theatre." His interest, he declares, is not so much with biography and history as it is in dramatic truth, which he finds as rarely in the current life of individuals as in the buried past of nations.

John's father, A. E. Drinkwater, a theatre manager, endeavored to rid his son of his playwright nonsense after he had written, at the age of eight, a play in five acts and many scenes, by sending him off to Oxford High School. During his six years in school, he devoted more time to athletics, in which he excelled, than in his studies and, when he was finished, he entered the insurance business but always entertained the hope of working in some theatre.

Five special concerts at the Empress Hotel this season, November 14, December 11, January 23, March 28, April 17.

$6,000 party is the stage background for a colorful, tuneful and lively ballroom scene act.

ZIEGFELD ATMOSPHERE

A corps of Victoria's most attractive young girls were ranged into choruses and, decked in snappy costumes, gave a Ziegfeld atmosphere to the production. One of the big hits was the chorus of stockinged "T.V." girls.

Miss Mary McFadden was clever with her burlesque of the angular, nasal, slapsdash-unnecessary type of stenographer, still reported as existing in some places, but scarce in Victoria offices. Miss McFadden gave a fantastic dance, which in itself was enough to headline her in the play.

Acting with her was Gyro Bill Speed, junior member of the firm, supposed to be a downright business man, and the snarling and cooing of the snarling and cooing of the staff. The two in their office scenes delighted the house.

Miss Betty Hetherington and George Motion with a tap dance, were responsible for a lively diversion in the show.

A REAL BRIGHT LIGHT

Little Marian Schwabe of the Russian School of Dancing was one of the unexpectedly bright spots of the whole show, when she led the Russian school chorus of peppy show girls in the "Breakaway" number.

Among the other stars of the show are Gyro Bun Trevert, who plays the part of the senior partner of the business firm; Miss Louise Fisher, who is the French maid, Marie; Gyro Charlie Mess, with his natural, sincere manner, as James Merriweather; Miss Betty Hetherington, as the "dear little wife," George Motion, as the chauffeur, Gyro Roy Manzer, as a business comrade, Gordo Bert Sibbold, another bright business man; Gyro Bill Hudson, Mrs. Dennis Manzer and Gyro Alex. Straith, who shone at the $6,000 party.

The musical features were the singing of "Gyros" by the Metropolitan Male Quartette, and of "My Hero" from the "Chocolate Soldier" by Isabelle Dowell.

The show's theme song, "Keep 'em Smiling," ran through the production. Among the popular numbers introduced were: "Doing the New Low-down," with swaggar dancers; "Oh Gee, Oh Joy," "Nearer and Dearest," "If I Were You, I'd Fall in Love With Me," "Wedding of the Painted Doll," with a black and white ballet; and "East Side, West Side," with a bowery dance.

The Gyros will produce the show again to-night with a final production Saturday night.

OLD IRISH FIDDLE PLAYED BY HALL IN CAPITOL FILM

A genuine Irish fiddle dating from the eighteenth century is played by James Hall in the new First National Vitaphone picture, "Smiling Irish Eyes," starring Colleen Moore which is showing at the Capitol Theatre all this week.

The fiddle was made by Thomas Perry of Dublin, the most famous of Irish violin-makers, who was sometimes called Ireland's Stradivarius. Perry was born in 1767 and died in 1830. Very few of his violins are in America, but it was decided that the fiddle used in "Smiling Irish Eyes," a
